EMOBILIZATION N UNITED STATES N HOME STRETCH

otal Men Discharg- d from Army Num- ber 1,440,000

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Gen- al March said today that "de- obilization in the United States as on the home stretch," up to sterday a total of 57,038 of- ers and 1,133,812 men had en discharged while the total dered for discharge had reach- 1,400,000.

The demobilization machinery now at such a point of efficiency d operation the chief of staff plained that it is capable of andling more men than Pershing n possibly send with available ipping.

Of the troops in the United ates only the overhead detac- ents which must be held for ture demobilization of return- g units will be left.

Up to January 1st 236,824 men d been returned from France. he department estimates that 30,000 will be returned in Feb- ary. This is an increase of 46,- 00 over the January total, due rgely to the transformation of rgo vessels into transports.

General March said that 51 rgo ships had been ordered con- rted and that the first of these ere now coming into service.

Plans for divisional parades in ome cities have been upset by e irregular flow of troops home- ard. General March said the nits were returning in such scat- red form that in a great ma- rity of cases it now seemed im- obable that divisional organiza- ons could be held together long nough for large parades.

Great Camp at Brest.

The greatest military camp in he world will be established at rest when plans for extension of mbarkation facilities there have een completed. Gen. March said rest would be the backbone of he American demobilization sys- m. It already has handled 51 er cent of the soldiers sent back o the United States up to date. s capacity of 50,000 men is to e doubled.

The department is dealing with his question however, as the di- isions are ordered home. The 7th (New York national guard) ivision will be paraded in New ork City and plans for parading he 42nd (Rainbow) division on s return in Washington. Gen- March thought, would be carried ut. Wherever opportunity offers or other division parades advant- ge will be taken of it.

BALFOUR DISCUSSES BRITISH EMBARGO

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Sir Rob- rt Balfour discussing the recent British embargo order on his ar- rival here from England today de- clared that it was not a matter of free trade or protection in the fiscal sense but one of self preser- vation of British industries which have been organized and rendered unproductive by the war.

"The country is faced with the situation of disorganized indus- try," he continued. "It has to provide employment for its peo- ple. During the war Great Britain has become a debtor rath- er than a creditor nation and it has sold a large volume of nego- tiable securities to provide the sinews of war. This has placed the country in a less favorable position and has meant the loss of income. It has adversely af- fected the position of exchanges, notably the American, so that both industrial and financial con- siderations are involved. This is the underlying cause of the action that has been critivised.'

PLAN MEDICAL AID FOR NEAR EAST COUNTRIES

Washington, Feb. 8.—Exten- sive preparations for medical aid to Serbia, Montenegro and Greece were announced today by the Am- erican Red Cross. Nine hospitals with a total nursing staff of fifty, are being organized in northern Serbia by the commission to the Balkans.

The largest hospital will have 200 beds and will be located in Belgrade. The other units will be placed in smaller cities.

KNABE WILL COACH CUBS

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Otto Knabe, the veteran baseball star, will re- turn to the Chicago Nationals as coach this season. President Fred Mitchel was advised tonight that Knabe, who is in business in Philadelphia with "Kid" Gleason manager of the Chicago Ameri- cans had arranged his affairs so that he could return to the Chi- cago club.

PROVISION FOR ENFORCING PROHIBITION

Washington, Feb. 8.—Provis- ion for enforcement of the war time prohibition law effective July 1, is embodied in a bill in- troduced in the senate today by Senator Sheppard of Texas and referred to the senate judiciary committee. The bill provides an appropriation of $100,000,000 for enforcement.

General Strike In Northwest Nears Its End

(By The Associated Press)
SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 8.—Faced by desertions in union ranks coupled with results brought about by Mayor Ole Han- son's ultimatum that troops would be used if necessary to restore Seattle's business operations to normal channels, the sympathetic strike, affecting approximately 55,000 workers seemed near its end tonight.

The general strike conference committee continued in session to- night discussing whether to call off the sympathetic strike.

In the meantime busines fast began assuming usual phases.

Municipal street cars had been operating all day. Late in the day Superintendent W. S. Rich- ardson of the Puget Sound Trac- tion & Light & Power company took out the first of the company's cars, with a soldier and special police officer on the rear platform. Other cars followed.

All papers except the Times, afternoon and post-Interligencer morning, appeared during the day. Tonight these two news- papers announced they would pub- lish regular editions as usual, on their own presses, regardless of the strike situation.

Similar signs that the back- bone of the strike had been brok- en appeared in various ways, so that it was believed by city of- ficials that all workers, except possibly the 25,000 metal trades men of the ship yards would be back at work Monday.

German--Poland Question Taken Up By Council

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, Feb. 8. — (British Wireless Service). — When the supreme and allied war council met in Paris today one of the questions which it discussed with the gravity of the relations be- tween Germany and Poland, ac- cording to despatches from Paris. The military danger with which Germany menaces Poland, it is felt may threaten France later on. So far it is declared, the Ger- mans have turned a deaf ear to the injunctions to Marshall Foch in regard to the evacuation claim- ed by the Poles. The Germans are holding an army in readiness to march to Poland and are con- centrating troops in the east.

The war council is resolved, ac- cording to an Exchange Telegraph company despatch to compel Ger- many to carry out the clauses of the armistice and in the renewal of the armistice on Feb. 17 will probably impose such conditions that from the point of view of de- mobilization and disarmament all the danger threatening Poland will be removed.

ILLINOIS STATE FAIR AUG. 15-23

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 8. — Charles Adkins, director of the state department of agriculture, announced tonight that the 1919 Illinois State Fair would be held Aug. 15-23, inclusive, and that the largest premium list ever of- fered was being prepared. The sum to be spent on awards, he stated, would amount to $115,000 whereas in past years the total has not exceeded $100,000.

On January 1, last, the admin- istration of the state fair passed from the old board of agriculture to the new department of agricul- ture created by the administra- tive code. By the provision of the code, expenses of the fair will be guaranteed by legislative ap- propriation, and an item of $229,- 000 appears in the prospective budget for this purpose. Receipts of the fair will be used to offset this appropriation.

NOTED SCULPTOR HOME FROM FRANCE

New York, Feb. 8.—Mrs. May- nard Ladd, a Boston sculptor, who has been serving with the Red Cross overseas as a maker of faces for maimed soldiers arrived here today on the White Star Liner Baltoc. Mrs. Ladd said she had made new faces for seventy French and five American sol- diers, taking a plaster cast of the disfigured faces, filling in with plaster the missing portions, and then by a process of electrolysis constructing these portions in copper.

Copper noses, ears and chins, she said, can be enameled so real- istically and attached so skillful- ly as virtually to defy detection.

VILLA FORCES STILL ACTIVE

El Paso, Texas, Feb. 8.—Villa followers, headed by Ramon Ve- ga entered Pearson, Chihuahua, Monday night, killed a Chinese merchant, looted his store of $20,- 000 worth of goods, robbed the store belonging to the Madera Lumber company, an American- Canadian corporation and hauled the loot to the hills on mules, ac- cording to passengers from Pear- son who arrived at the border to- night.

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 8.—Fire which destroyed the Boston Store with a loss of $125,000 last night was still burning fiercely today and firemen were still battling to prevent spread of the flames. The store wa sthe largest in the city.

HOUSE ADOPTS RECORD-BREAKING WAR REVENUE BILL

By Vote of 310 To 11 — Measure Now Goes to Senate

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The house tonight concluded its work on the record-breaking war rev- enue bill by adoption, 310 to 11 after six hours discussion the con- ferees agreement on the measure. It now goes to the senate for final approval which is expected early next week.

The conference report which proposes to raise six billion dol- lars in taxes this year and more than four billions annually until repealed will be taken up by the senate immediately after disposal of the woman suffrage resolution Monday, or, if delayed, on Tues- day.

Its adoption by the senate and approval by President Wilson was regarded as assured.

During debate in the house to- day, Democratic and Republican leaders joined in declaring that the bill tax levies were too low, both for this year and 1920, and predicted that higher taxes must be provided by the next congress.

Opposition to the report was not based on its tax imposts, but to minor amendments, particular- ly the child labor legislation. On the final roll call seven Demo- crats — Blackburn, Alabama, Dies and Rayburn of Texas, and Humphreys, Sisson, Stephens and Venable, Mississippi, voted with four Republicans, Dyer, Missouri; Langley and Powers of Kentucky and Sells of Tennessee—against the conference draft. A motion by Representative Venable to re- commit the bill and strike out the child labor section was defeated 171 to 15.

Besides the child labor pro- vision, several house members criticised as a "pittance" that $60 pay bonus provided for persons discharged from military service.

Kitchin Commends Bill.

Representative Kitchin, Demo- cratic leader made the principal address commending the bill as a whole, but declaring it should have imposed higher taxes and that it would not meet future re- quirements.

He expressed the belief that ex- penditures this year would total $20,000,000,000 and $10,000,000- 000 in 1920 and that by end of the next fiscal year the bonds out- standing would aggregate $30,- 000,000,000. He explained how- ever that to enact the bill and take $1,700,000,000 more than under existing law from "profiteers" charged with conducting propa- ganda against its passage, the house conferees were compelled to give and take. He also declared that before the ten per cent semi- luxury taxes become effective April 1 next, legislation for their repeal or modification would be forthcoming.

Representatives Fordney of Michigan and Moore of Pennsyl- vania, Republican conferees also declared that the bill's taxes would be insufficient, while Rep- resentative Rainey of Illinois, a Democratic conferee asserted that there must be immediate revision of the tariff. Heavy federal es- tate taxes also were urged by Mr. Rainey, who declared there now are 30,000 American millionaires, 22,000 of whom were created by the war.

ALSACE RESIDENTS ATTEND ASSEMBLY

WEIMAR, Thursday, Feb. 6.— (By the Associated Press.)— Twelve former residents of Alsace including Major General Scheuch, former Prussian war minister have arrived in Weimar. They were chosen as delegates to the national assembly by numerous Alsatian refugees and they came to offset as far as possible the French prohibition against elec- tions in Alsace having conducted a maskeshift election by mail.

Whether these delegates shall have a vote in or be received by the national assembly had not been decided upon today, but they will in any event have an oppor- tunity to report on conditions in Alsace.

PLEADS FOR MAKING NEXT LOAN SUCCESS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 8.— The next liberty loan will be a "thinksgiving loan" as well as a "victory loan" and must be float- ed in a spirit of patriotism rath- er than on a cold commercial basis, Secretary Glass declared in an address here tonight before the Pitthburgh Chamber of Com- merce.

"A little thought will teach the wisest among the financiers that it is impossible now to float, purely for investment purposes, a loan of five or six billion dol- lars," Mr. Glass said. "We have got to appeal to the patriotism of the American people and it will not be done in vain.

"The honor of the government is involved. Four liberty loans have 'gone over the top' and noth- ing nor anybody can shake my faith in the purpose of the coun- try to put the capstone to the splendid structure of national credit by making the victory loan an abundant success."

Senate Passes Yearly Postoffice Appropriation

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. — The annual post office appropriation bill carrying a total of $400,- 000,000 and providing for the expenditure of $200,000,000 ad- ditional for road building in the next three years was passed to- night by the senate without a rec- ord vote. The measure now goes to conference.

After rejecting committee amendments reducing the house appropriation for motor truck routes from $2,000,000 to $300,000 the senate tonight re- considered its previous action and voted to sustain the committee.

The senate also reconsidered its previous adverse vote and adopted the amendment by Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey providing that enlisted soldiers, sailors and marines em- ployed in road construction not necesarily needed for military purposes be paid the same wage as that received by civilians. The amendment, which applies to all men heretofore employed in road construction provides that no en- listed man can be employed on such work without his consent.

Fight Over Road Aendment

The principal fight over the bill was on the committee's amendment appropriating $200,- 000,000 for construction of roads. $50,000,000 of which would be available this year. The opposition was led by Senator Thomas of Colorado, Democrat who sought to have it eliminated on the ground that it was general legislation.

The amendment finally was adopted, by a vote of 51 to 17.

An amendment by Senator Smoot of Utah providing as a sub- stitute the creation of a federal highway commission and giving the secretary of the treasury au- thority to issue bonds up to one billion dollars which would form the federal fund for road con- struction was defeated 46 to 18, as was an amendment by Senator Moses of New Hampshire provid- ing that any money spent by the federal government for construc- tion of military roads in the vi- cinity of military camps and aviation fields be deducted in apportioning to the states funds provided in the bill.

Senator Borah of Idaho, en- deavor to obtain a suspension of the rules in order to add as a rider an amendment repealing provisions of the espionage act authorizing the postmaster gen- eral to bar from the mails matters believed by him to be treason- able. This motion to suspend the rules failed by a vote of 29 to 25.

Committee amendments in- creasing the house appropriation of $200,000 for the aerial mail service to $850,000 and authoriz- ing the postmaster general in discretion to contract for pneu- matic mail service in New York was adopted.

SEARCH FOR CHICAGO NURSE CONTINUES

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Search of central Illinois for Mrs. Dollie Chesher, Chicago nurse employed by a Lake Shore Drive family, who disappeared last Thursday, continued tonight after reports that she was believed to have been seen in Peoria, Blooming- ton and Benson. Her mother lives in Bloomington, but declares the daughter had not been there.

After failure to find the miss- ing young woman in Peoria where she was thought to have gone from Bloomington by the police of the latter city, the Chi- cago police tonight were informed by a telephone message from D. J. Heinecke, a village official of eBnson, that a woman answering the description of Mrs. Chesher had arrived there on a Santa Fe train from Minonk. The woman had no baggage and walked ra- pidly from the station and later could not be found.

The Chicago police believe the nurse was a victim of lost mem- ory.

OFFICIAL PEACE CONFERENCE STATEMENT

Paris, Feb. 8.—(British Ware- less Service)—The official state- ment issued today on the meeting last night of the peace confer- ence committee of a society of nations says:

"The commission on the society of nations met on the evening of February 7 and continued its dis- cussions of articles of the draft. Substantial agreement was reach- ed by the commission on the chief points discussed. The commission decided, however, that certain clauses of the draft should be re- ferred to a sub-committee of four for clarification. In order that the greatest possible progress might be made with the draft it was decided to resume the dis- cussion on the morning of Feb. 8 at 10:30 o'clock.

U. S. WILL SEND MINISTERS TO CZECH GOVERNMENT

Washington, Feb. 8.—At the request of President Wilson, pro- visor was made today in the dip- lomatic and consular bill by the senate appropriations committee for minisiters to the new Czech- Slozak nation and the new gov- ernment of Poland. Secretary Lansing informed the committee that the president had given in- structions by cable that provision can be made for the ministers.

Discuss Terms For Renewal Of Armistice

(By The Associated Press)
PARIS, Feb. 8.—The supreme war council continued its discus- sion of the terms for a renewal of the armistice today. The follow- ing official communication with respect to the negotiations was discussed this afternoon.

"The supreme war council met this afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock at the Qua d'Orsay. The discus- sion of the terms of the renewal of the armistice was continued. The following resolution pro- posed by President Wilson was approved

"First—Under present condi- tions many questions not primar- ily of military character which are arising daily and which are bound to become of increasing importance as time passes should be dealt with on both of the Unit- ed States and the Allies by civilian representatives of these governments experienced in such questions—finance, food, block- ade control, shipping and raw materials.

"'Second—To accomplish this, there shall be constituted at Paris a supreme economic coun- cil to deal with such matters for the period of the armistice. The council shall absorb or replace all such other existing inter-al- lied bodies and their powers as it may determine from time to time. The economic council shall consist of not more than five rep- resentatives of each i nterested governent.

"'Third—There shall be added to the present international per- manent armistice commission two civilian representatives of each government who shall consult with the allied high command, but who may report direct to the supreme economic council.'

"The next meeting will take place on Monday at 3 o'clock in the afternoon."

BULLETINS

ARCHANGEL, Feb. 8. — (By the Associated Press). — Allied forces advanced five miles down the Petrograd road from Kadish yesterday. Two Bolshevist guns were captured by the allies during the fighting.

ANTWERP, Feb. 8. — Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of President Wilson who had been ill in the American legation at Brussels has completely recover- ed. She has resumed the concerts which she was giving in Belgium.

WARSAW, Wednesday, Feb. 5. —(By the Associated Press). — Polish forces have occupied Bialy- stock, about 115 miles northwest of Warsaw and the danger from the Bolshevists is diminishing along the Polish frontiers. The Czechs continue their advance in Galicia.

PARIS, Feb. 8—President Wil- son tonight received a committee of the society for the protection of Polish victims who presented to him a manifesto expressing appre- ciation of his good offices. He also received delegatione from the universities of Cracow and Athens, who conferred upon him honory degrees.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 8.— It was officially announced short- ly after 5 o'clock today that the deal transferring the Milwaukee association baseball club to Clar- ence Rowland, recently manager of the Chicago White Sox, and Hugh Brennan, of Chicago, was closed. The announcement came from Owner A. F. Timme's office.

WARSAW, Feb. 8.—(By the Associated Press)—Two outstand- ing points of the Polish elections in the early part of the week were the energetic work of the woman, notably against the Socialists and the defeat of the Socialists de- spite the large sums of money they are sai dto have spent.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Feb. 8. —From six to thirteen persons were washed overboard and drowned late today from the can- nery tender Uwanta of the Pacific American Fisheries company, ten miles south of here as the boat was making its way from the company's plant of Eliza Island. The tender was carrying fifty persons, nearly all from the Eliza Island plant.

PATTERSON, N. J., Feb. 9.— New Jersey silk mill owners and representatives of nearly 30,000 striking employes agreed early this morning to request the na- tional war labor board to fix tem- porary working hours which will be accepted by both sides pending a final decision by the board of the hour question. It was said that work probably will be resum- ed Monday.

LOST ARMY BALLOON FOUND

Boston, Feb. 8.—A big naval dirigible balloon lost off Chat- ham nearly a month ago was picked up off the Georges Bank last Monday by the fishing Schooner Natalie Hammond and brought here today. The balloon valued at $15,000 drifted away from Chatham after its engine became disabled. The officers in charge jumped and escaped.

DR. EDUARD DAVID HEADS GERMANY'S NEW GOVERNMENT

Democratic Leader is Unanimously Chos- en By Assembly

WEIMAR, Fridey, Feb. 7.— (By The Associated Press.)—Dr. Eduard David, for many years one of the leaders of the German Social Democrat party, today was almost unanimously elected pres- ident of the German national as- sembly.

Dr. David is one of the under- secretaries of state for foreign affairs.

The clerical member, Fehen- bach, a former president of the reichstag, the Democrat Hauss- mann and the conservative Diet- rich, were elected vice presidents. Fehenbach and Haussmann re- ceived 374 votes each anr Dietrich 356.

A Weimar dispatch dated Fri- day and received Friday night er- roneously reported that Carl Kautsky, also an under secretary of state for foreign affairs, had been elected president of the as- sembly.

Kautsky is an independent So- cialist and was last reported at- tending the Socialist conference at Berne.

Many Caucuses Held.

Weimer, Wednesday, Feb. 6.— (By The Associated Press.)—The day before the convening of the German national assembly was devoted to party caucuses and dis- cussion of various projects to be brought before the assembly.

The Centrist party is one of the strongest Bourgeoise parties in the assembly. It has eighty eight delegates and it is expected that the four Guelphs will join with the center on all important ques- tions. It is becoming apparent that one of the main contests in the assembly will be between the advocates of a republic with all state divisions eliminated and the advocates of a federal republic in which separate states shall continue to exist with well defined state's rights.

The former conservatives and national liberals all of whom fav- or a federal republic are opposed to any division of Prussia where- as a considerable part of the Cen- trist party intends to fight for the creation of a "west German state formed from the Catholic territories of western Prussia."

It appears unlikely however, that there is any considerable sen- timent left within the Centrist party for the creation by it of an autonomous independent republic. Sentiment in favor of this originally was created by the an- ti-church decrees of the former Prussian minister, Adolf Hoff- mann. The most uncertain fac- tor is the German Democratic party. The left wing of the Dem- ocrats is almost red but on the other side are many delegates re- cruited from the Richthofen wing of the national liberals.

Shortly before the elections to the national assembly some lead- ers of this party made an attempt to disavow the acts of Hugo Preuss, the Prussian minister of the interior, who drew up the draft of a constitution which will be submitted to the assembly. This draft would permit the di- vision of Prussia into smaller states and some of the Democrat- ic leaders alarmed by the opposi- tion displayed by the Prussian Bourgeois, hasten to declare that they disapproved of the idea and that Guelphs if elected would probably refuse to accept the mandate.

Not only has Minister Preuss accepted the mandate but has submitted a constitution to the as- sembly.

THOUSANDS ARE UNEMPLOYED IN U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. — Greater increases in the area of unemployment were shown in re- ports for the week made public today by the department of labor. In the last three weeks the per- centage of cities showing sur- pluses of labor has grown from 44 to 57 of those reporting, while the cities with shortages have de- creased from 13 to 11 per cent.

Persons out of employment last week numbered 265,000 and this week 290,831. Labor shortages amount to only 8,000. The un- employment belt extends from New England to the Pacific coast with conditions worst in Cleve- land, where there are 70,000 workers idle.

Detroit has 35,000 out of work.

BRITISH DEVELOP DEPTH CHARGE

London, Feb. 8.—The develop- ment of the depth charge method of defense against submarines, which had a great deal to do with the lessening of the submarine menace, was the worg of the Brit- ish navy, according to a semi- official statement issued today. The actual circumstances are de- clared to have been as follows:

The commander-in-chief of the grand fleet recommended in 1914 the formation of a depth charge defense and experiments and in- vestigations were made. The Vernon experimental school took the matter in hand and the sub- marine attack committee of the admiralty ultimately recommend- ed the adoption of a desin which was virtually the same as that used thruout the war.

The Cas- tera is scheduled to arrive at New York about February 18 with practically all the 63rd regiment coast artillery and sixty-five cas- ual officers.

Kansas Expected First

The Kansas is expected to ar- rive at Newport News, Feb. 16, with the headquarters, medical detachment and companies A, B, C and D of the 116th ammunition train, and the 116th engi- neers complete, all bound for Camp Dix.

The Transport Harrisburg, due to arrive at New York, Feb. 15, has on board companies A to G, inclusive, of the 368th infantry. All of these go to Camp Meade. Also on board are 33 casual offi- cers and about 50 sick and wound- ed.

The Louisville is due at New York Feb. 16 with four batteries of the 351st field artillery, for Camp Meade; headquarters 167th field artillery brigade detachment of company G, 368th infantry, and convalescent detachments num- bers 9, 10 and 12. Also on this ship are about 300 naval men and thirteen sailors' wives.

The transport Kroonland is due at New York, Feb. 17 with the 42nd regiment coast artil- lery complete, 1102nd aero re- placement squadron, photographic sections, numbers 19, 20, 21, 22, 24, and 26, headquarters 38th coast artillery brigade, convales- cent detachments 31, 32 and 45 to 49 inclusive, and 16 casual of- ficers.

The Polar Bear and Malden are to arrive at Baltimore Feb. 18 and New York, 17, respective- ly, with a few casual officers each.

NATIONAL CEMETERY IN FRANCE FOR U. S.

BOSTON, Feb. 8.—Acting up- on instructions from the war de- partment General Pershing has been in communication the past month with Marshal Petain for the purpose of purchasing proper- ty for a national cemetery for the American dead in France ac- cording to a statement made here by Secretary of War Baker. The orders stipulated, he said, that a chateau or castle shall be located on the property decided upon, adequate for a museum to hause a collection commemorating America's participation in the world war. Secretary Baker made clear that the plan would not interfere in any way with the desires of parents who wish their dead brought back to this coun- try.

"The war department will scrupulously respect such re- quests," he said.

ALLIED TROOPS IN ARCHANGEL ATTACK

ARCHANGEL, Friday, Feb. 7. —(By the Associated Press). — British and Russian troops, sup- ported by American machine gun and trench mortar units, began an attack at ten o'clock this morn- ing against the Bolsheviki on the Petrograd road south of Kadish. There have been no final reports on the results of the fighting.

The infantry went forward aft- er the Canadian artillery had si- lenced the enemy artillery in a bombardment of several hours. The attack was made for the pur- pose of protecting the American positions at Sredmakrenga about 30 miles eastward, from a flank attack. The Bolsheviki are shell- ing the American positions in the Vaga sector continuously.

ARGENTINE WILL LEND MONEY TO ALLIES

PARIS, Feb. 8.—Argentina fi- nancial aid to the allies was out- lined to the French association of political economy at its meeting Friday under the presidency of Yves Guyol. Thomas A. Lebre- ton, the Argentine ambassador to the United States, called attention to the facility with which Argen- tine banks during the war had opened credits of 1,500,000,000 francs to France and Great Brit- ain for the purchase of wheat. The banks, the ambassador added again are opening a credit of 1,- 000,000,000 francs to the allies for the purchase of wheat and meat without recourse to a loan.

URGE POSTMASTERS TO CONTINUE W. S. S.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Post- masters were asked t oday by Postmaster Burleson to continue their activities on behalf of the sale of the War Savings Stamps.

EIGHT KILLED, MANY INJURED IN EXPLOSION

Three Story Building Wrecked in Wiscon- sin Village

(By the Associated Press)
PLATTEVILLE, Wis., Feb. 8. —The death tonight of Edward Ratzoll, 17 years old, increased to eight the death list in the ex- plosion and fire which wrecked the three story Realty Building today. Nearly a score of persons were injured by flying debris, while falling walls accounted for the death of three firemen. The property loss was estimated at nearly $200,000.

It was reported that a gas ex- plosion was responsible for the tragedy and also that gasoline ex- ploded and started the blaze.

Citizens tonight were planning to call for a thoro investigation to ascertain the cause.

Firemen had been called to a trivial blaze before the explosion which blew out the four walls of the Realty Building, also known as the Forehand Block, contain- ing stores, offices and flats.

Names of Those Killed.

The dead:

C. Rafferty, owner of the build- ing.

Clyde Gilmore, fireman.

Otto Hale, fireman.

Ernest Dickson, fireman.

Glenn Vanderee, jeweler.

Epsy Dunn, 14 year old son of a physician, with offices in the building.

Fred Steinhoff, farmer, a pass- er-by, caught under falling walls.

Edward Ratzoll, 17 years old.

The local company of Wiscon- sin home guards turned out and tok control of the situation, aiding the firemen, chiefly volun- teers, who succeeded in subduing the fire. Fire companies from surrounding towns hurried here and all local physicians and nurses responded promptly to the emergency.

Most of the victims were killed outright in the collapse of the building. Debris was thrown about the streets and showered upon surrounding buildings but the fire was prevented from spreading. Many were injured by flying bricks and timbers.

Among the seriously injured were D. R. Vickers, a youth who, it was said, was probably fatal- ly hurt, and Harry Duckworth, a bystander, when the explosion occurred. A 12-year old son of Newton Edyards also was report- ed seriously injured.

Fire Chief Frank Goodell and a sick woman in the building narrowly escaped death or injury. Goodell entered the building with three firemen who were killed. The woman, Mrs. Ed- wards, was carried to safety by firemen.

NO NEED OF U. S. PROTECTING ARMENIA

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—There is no more need for the United States assuming a virtual protec- torate of Armenia than for Great Britain or France to assume pro- tectorate over Cuba, declared Charles E. Hughes in an address here tonight at a dinner given by the American committee for re- lief in Armenia. Both Mr. Hughes and William Jennings Bryan, an- other speaker, expressed confi- dence that Aremenians are cap- able to the fullest extent of self government.

James W. Gerard chairman of the committee presided at the din- ner, a feature of which was a pageant, staged by Armenians from all parts of the country de- picting 3,000 years of Armenia's history.

FIRST DISTINGUISHED CROSS AWARDED IN U. S.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The first distinguished service cross to be presented in this country to an enlisted man for gallantry over- sees was worn today by Corporal Newell B. Davis, of Rochester, N. Y., I Company, 8th infantry of the first division who received the decoration at Walter Reed hos- pital where he is recuperating from wounds.

General Pershing cited Davis for rescuing a wounded comrade at Cantigny in the face of machine gun fire.

SEND FOR CROWDER

The primary election of candidates for mayor and aldermen to conduct the affairs of the city will be held in March, and so far there have been very few names mentioned as candidates.

For mayor on the Republican ticket there has been an effort made to induce Edgar E. Crabtree to become a candidate. Mr. Crabtree's reputation as a citizen and as a patriotic and unselfish worker in national and state affairs in the trying days of the war would fit him especialy for the place, but as yet Mr. Crabtree has not given consent for the use of his name.

Ex-Mayor George W. Davis has many friends and admirers who praise his former record and desire him to become a candidate.

W. L. Alexander, the well known business man, has also been mentioned by many, his business ability and well known energetic character leading his friends to believe he would be of value to the city at the present critical peirod in municipal affairs.

On the Democratic ticket we have heard but one name mentioned, that of ex-superintendent of schools, Harry Montgomery.

There seems to be a lamentable lack of interest on the part of voters generally as to the election and as to candidates. Many who might be of great worth to the city in the conduct of its affairs dislike the idea of becoming candidates, of making a canvass to secure a nomination and then to secure election. There are men who thru public pride and thoro interest in the town they call home should be willing to make some sacrifice for the general good.

The needs of the city are great, never more than at the present time, and it only by making some effort that men capable and of sufficient strength of character can be secured to make the race for aldermen and to fill the various places in the city government.

The Journal has no individual candidates to boost. It does, however, desire to emphasize the need of the nomination of men, whose only incentive will be love of their home town and an earnest, honest desire to lift the place from the slough, to do their duty fearlessly, practice economy, help build up a water system, and strive for the good of its citizens.

We hope that both Republican and Democratic voters will keep that one thought as their slogan, "the best men obtainable for the places to be filled," not simply good fellows, good friends, but men best fitted to conduct the affairs of the city to a place where the average resident can take a little pride in the fact that he is a resident of the city of Jacksonville.

IN A GOOD CAUSE.

Chicago people are holding a series of auctions to raise money for a $1,265,000 Armenian relief fund. Odd bits of lace and jewels are being brought forth from closets and attics. Furniture is also being offered and the sales thus far held have produced many thousands of dollars toward the fund. This auction system seems to be the advance of the rummage sale into high society. The plan is being carried out for a mighty good cause. Anyone who learns the facts about conditions in Armenia and the territory there about will agree at once that the aid is needed and that the duty of America to contribute the $30,000,000 fund is clear.

ANOTHER LAW ENFORCEMENT PLAN.

Just now the states seem to be vying with one another in their efforts to pass legislation which will make certain the enforcement of the prohibition law. Wisconsin has suggested a new plan, a law providing for the appointment of a state officer to enforce the law, and providing $25,000 for the annual expenses of the department. There should not be much trouble about enforcement if a special officer is thus detailed for the work backed. with full state authority and ample funds.

BIG MONEY SOUNDS EASY.

It has been frequently remarked that people these days talk in big figures much more glibly than ever before. A billion dollars in the past was hardly understandable and now billions in common parlance has taken the place of millions. Therein lies the danger in congress. Men there have been passing vast appropriations during the past tfo years without very much question if the requests for the funds were labeled "for war purposes."

Taxpayers are beginning to fear that congress has formed the habit and will pass further costly measures without giving due thought to the fact that the war over and that the money so levied must all come from the incomes and wages of the people, with every indication that the wages and incomes will not be as great in the near future as in the immediate past.

LOOKING FOR A PREACHER.

How far different the present church situation is from the past is forcibly illustrated by an advertisement recently appearing in Chicago papers. In this advertisement a Congregational church at Winnipeg, Canada, states that the pulpit of the church is vacant and the congregation desires to secure a capable and efficient pastor. Winnipeg is described as a large and prosperous city, the church one with ample means and ministers are urged to make application.

Time was when a church committee on supply was appointed and were inclined to "keep it dark" because they were flooded with applications of ministers who desired to change their locations and enter into "new fields of usefulness." Many of the applicants too, were capable men and entirely able to deliver the expected service. Now an active church in a progressive city has a difficult time in securing a pastor of the type the present times demand.

THE DUAL SALARY PLAN.

No one can for a moment question the integrity of Secretary of War Baker, but the secretary is having a little difficulty in defending the record of some administration workers who are holding down government positions in Washington and drawing still larger salaries from corporations. Mr. Baker testified in a hearing recently that he thought there was no impropriety in the men in question drawing a salary of $4,000 from the government and a much larger one from a corporation, because he did not believe that the duties of the two positions came into conflict.

It might be possible to have this salary situation in war times, assuming that men volunteered temporarily for the Washington positions without giving up the duties or the salaries of the positions previously held, but it is almost an impossible situation to continue. If one man in the employ of a corporation holds a government position in Washington, it is pretty safe to say that he is there for a purpose and that the corporation is not paying the salary without getting value received in the matter of service. Mr. Baker admits that it would be entirely improper for a member of the cabinet to be in this dual salary position, and it is hard to draw the line, showing wherein the two-salary plan is proper for some men in government service and not so for others.

A WARNING TO MATERIAL MEN.

It is pretty safe to guess that there will be lower prices for road building materials and general building supplies during the next few months for a vigorous campaign is being waged in Illinois by the state authorities and also by influences in Chicago. It has been mentioned before that there was strong possibility of delaying all good roads work because of the high prices asked for materials, and it is said that the failures of producers of supplies to reduce prices threatens to delay the general building program in the state.

The material men who are asking more than these materials are worth and sending out propaganda to suggest that only part of the road improvement system as planned is to become a fact, are failing to reckon the type of administration with which they must cope in Illinois.

Governor Lowden has the firm intention of seeing to it that the wishes and purposes of citizens of Illinois who indorsed the good roads bond issue are carried out. There may be a little delay but there will eventually be no disappointment. The order has gone forth that there must be no profiteering in building materials.

Elza Stephens has arrived home from France with an honorable discharge in his pocket and is ready to take up the duties of civil life again.

CONFLICTING TESTIMONY

One story says that Exile Bill sits brooding on a windswept hill, all moist with unshed tears; he looks upon the misty sea, and sighs, "Ach Himmel! Woe is me! I wish I had zwei beers!" Another says he's full of pep, he goes to work with active step, and chops down lordly oaks; the peasants hear his ax blows ring, they see him dance and smile and sing, and hear his sprightly jokes. One says through all his days and nights he sits in gloomy state and writes, as though he wrought for pelf; but what he writes no man may guess; if he were asked he might confess he doesn't know himself. We're told he's loony, that he's sane, his ear is troubling him again, he's feeling blithe and gay; he never leaves his room, it seems, and he goes fishing in the streams, and walks twelve miles a day. I can't keep cases worth a cent on this erratic, changeful gent—he's like a weather vane; but little boots it what he does, what hornets in his attic buzz, so that he doesn't reign. Oh, he may write or chop down trees, or manufacture Limburg cheese, or reap or quarry stons; let him indulge in honest sweat, just so he doesn't ever get his clutches on a throne.

BUTTE MINES CLOSE AS RESULT OF STRIKE

BUTTE, Mont., Feb. 8.—A strike called by industrial workers of the world resulted in the closing today of the mines in the Butte district. Industrial workers some armed, turned back from the mines the miners, who sought to enter. Late today it was announced that 250 additional soldiers would be here Sunday to aid detachment of 90 men of the Forty Fourth Infantry who began patrolling the streets after the miners had been turned back from the mines.

It was unofficially announced that six thousand men were idle in Butte this afternoon because of the strike. No effort will be made to work the mines tomorrow as the mines have not been running on Sunday recently.

Eleven arrests were made by the police during the day. Included among the pickets at the mines before the soldiers went on duty were a number of Finnish women, one of whom, it was said, was armed.

The order to strike was given by the industrial workers of the world after a melting last night which considered the notice of reduction of $1 daily in the miners' wages.

PROPOSE DIVISION OF MEXICAN LAND

Mexico City, Dec.—A project for the division of national lands of Mexico among small farmers and ranchers is expected to be presented by President Carranza to the present session of the Mexican congress. It is proposed to organize agricultural colonies with state support and supervision in the states of Coahuila, Nuevo Leon, Chiapas and Chihuahua. The plan involves the development of irrigation projects which already have been proposed by the Department of Development and to comprise conservation of natural resources.

The outline of a new series of laws to govern the relations between employers and the employed and to limit the working day to eight hours has been submitted to the representatives in congress. The proposed laws are intended also to protect the wage of workmen, provide hygienic surroundings for workers, compensation for industrial accidents, protection of women employes, and arbitration of industrial disputes.

"EXTRAVAGANCE" DIAGNOSED

New York, Feb. 8.—"Extravagance" of the American government, was diagnosed as a "dangerous disease" that will require "almost a popular uprising" to cure, by Representative Fredrick H Gillett of Massachusetts, ranking Republican member of the committee appropriation in an address here today at a luncheon of the Republican club. He voiced a demand for reforms and opposition to government ownership of railroads and telegraphs.

L. B. TURNER IS NOW COUNTY CHAIRMAN

Succeeds J. G. Ames as Head of War Savings Work in Morgan County—Will Conduct Campaign During Summer.

Announcement was made yesterday of the appointment of L. B. Turner as chairman of the War Savings society in Morgan county to succeed Dr. J. G. Ames, who was recently appointed a district chairman.

The appointment of Mr. Turner is a fitting one. Since the inauguration of the War Savings and Thrift Stamp movement in Morgan county under the direction of Carl H. Weber, Mr. Turner has been actively identified with the work.

He was appointed chairman of fraternal organizations by Mr. Weber and thru his efforts these societies were large purchasers of War Savings Stamps. Mr. Turner also was active in the sale of stamps thru the mail service and always ranked high among the employes of the local office in this regard.

Speaking of his appointment last evening Mr. Turner said that the campaign would not be such an intensive one this year as it was was not so much the raising of a big sum of money as to teach the habits of thrift to the American people. Miss Alma Mackness will be in charge of the local office on the seventh floor of the Ayers Bank building.

Tomorrow Mr. Turner will go to Springfield to attend a conference of county chairmen of the twenty-six counties comprising the Fourth district. Shaller Mathews state chairman of the War Savings society will be the speaker and the plan of campaign will be outlined at this time.

LLOYD B. BOWEN ON THIS SIDE.

Capt. J. F. Bowen of Edge Hill road has received a letter from his son Lloyd who has arrived in New York on the steamer "Cedric" en route from France to Camp Mills and hopes soon to be at home. The young man is a worthy son of a brave father who served with ability and distinction in the civil war.

On the ship were the heavy artillery units which were the first to go into action in France and serve longer than any other artillery unit. There were on this ship 3,507 fighters principally of the 44th regiment coast artillery corps, consisting of 44 officers and 1,582 men, the pioneer heavy artillery regiment of the war; and the 6th regiment coast artillery corps with 47 officers and 1,602 men. Most of the 44th are regular army men and went into action April 1918. One of the 44th battalions was the first American unit to set foot on German sail Both organizations did hard fighting in the drive on St. Mihiel under the famous one armed French general, Gourand. There are seventeen winners of the Croix de Guerre among the 44th and the unit took part in the fighting all along the western front from the sea to Switzerland.

A CLOSE CALL.

Yesterday morning a gentleman whose name could not be ascertained, drove from Greenfield to the city in a fine, large automobile and after attending to his immediate business thought he would park on the west side of the square in front of the clothing store of Lukeman Brothers. He turned and started at a rather fast gait and the brakes refused to work. On came the car, mounted the walk and just as the hind wheels passed over the curb the machine stopped within a perilously short distance of the fine show window. Had any one been passing by at the time it would have gone hard with them. The man was fearfully annoyed and made all suitable apologies and of course was not to blame but Mr. Lukeman said it was as close a call for his show window as he cares to have.

S. Green, of the Jacksonville Tailoring Co., has returned from a trip to New York and Chicago. His return was hastened owing to the continued absence of Mr. Renner, due to ill health.

Is your automobile an expensive vehicle?

Most people would answer yes, to that question. Do you know that SPEED is the one thing that adds the most expense?

The very instant a body is set in motion, friction commences; friction is what wears out your automobile.

The faster the body moves, the more friction. Consequently, the quicker it destroys itself.

To make your car a REAL PLEASURE VEHICLE, with a minimum of expense, drive with care; keep down the speed, and buy your accessories and supplies from us.

ERROR IN TESTIMONY OF CAPTAIN LESTER

Associated Press Dispatches of December 13 in Regard to Connections of J. J. Dickinson with German Paper Misleading.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Printing of the official transcript of testimony of Captain E. G. Lester, of the army intelligence service before the senate committee investigating German propaganda has disclosed an error in The Associated Press report of statements by Captain Lester regarding the employment of J. J. Dickinson in Washington by George Viereck before the United States entered the war.

Captain Lester testified that Dickinson was employed in 1916, and in response to questions stated there was nothing in his investigation to show any German connections or German activities by Dickinson after February, 1917.

The error occurring in the report of a discussion by Captain Lester of a letter written to President Wilson after the United States went to war in which Viereck protested loyalty, attributed to the witness the statement that it was only a short time after writing this letter that Viereck came to Washington and employed Dickinson as his secret agent to obtain information from the United States. The transcript shows that Dickinson's employment was discussed after the reference to the letter but that Captain Lester did not connect the two incidents.

Mr. Dickinson appeared before the committee on January 17 at his own request and testified that he was employed by Viereck to write articles for the Fatherland in 1916 and that he severed the connection when the United States broke relations with Germany.

FOREIGN OFFICIALS LEAVE FOR HOME

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—British and Greek naval, military and diplomatic officials were passeners on the White Star Line Steamship Adriatic which sailed today for Liverpool.

Admiral Sir W. L. Grant, who commanded the British fleet in American waters, expressed appreciation of the cordial relations which he said he had enjoyed with the American authorities. Brigadier General J. D. Cormack, head of the British air production in the United States, Major General John Headlam, formerly head of British artillery production, General Charles Lee, head of the British flying corps and Sir George Butter, head of the British information bureau, accompanied Admiral Grant.

George Roussos, acting minister of Greece, said he was returning to his country convinced he would serve Greece in the United States better as a member of parliament than as a diplomat here. With him sailed Michael Tsamados, Greek charge d' affaires in Washington. They will confer at the peace conference with Premier Venizelos.

POTASH OUTLOOK VERY DISCOURAGING

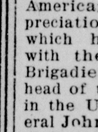

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—(By the Associated Press).—The Kackgerschall Kalipotash corporation in its annual report declares that the future outlook of the German potash industry is anything but encouraging. Seventeen mines which were important because of the high quality of the yield and advantageous shipping opponents are now in the hands of the enemy while new mines have been uncovered in Spain. Germany thus not only forfeits the monopoly but loses the full benefit of the commodity as an object of exchange.

Internal conditions are also far satisfactory the report says, the introduction of the eight hour day and increased wages having considerably heightened the cost of production which is further augmented by the mounting price of coal and other commodities.

TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT DISCUSSED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—When the project of a trans-Atlantic flight was urged here by Major General Branker of the British air service last year it was brought out that the shortest distance would be from New Foundland to the Irish coast. This approximately 2,000 miles and given a plane capable of a sustained speed of 100 miles an hour it would be made in twenty hours. So far as known however, no plane has been built which could make this trip without stopping for re-fueling. The route most generally favored in naval circles for the first tran-Atlantic flight is via the Azores, with a stop at the Islands for fuel and oil. Some officers favor a half way stop at sea to refueling from a destroyer if it is considered impossible to make the trip in a single flight.

It has been said heretofore that the crew of any plane attempting to cross the Atlantic would be composed of at least five men; two pilots to provide relief at the levers, two machanics to care for the engines and a navigating officer to chart the course.

As to weather conditions, it was said that probably not before June would conditions become stable enough to warrant at attempt.

While there is a good deal of friendly rivalry with the British government over making the first trans-Atlantic flight, it is said that either nation could count upon the co-operation of the other. As the prevailing winds are from west to east in the Atlantic, the chances favor an attempt from this side.

READJUSTMENT OF BUSINESS DISCUSSED

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 8.—The problem of the unemployed, brought about by the sudden termination of the war and the return of soldiers to civil operations is one which probably will remain unsettled for a period of a year or so until readjustment of business and industrial conditions in the opinion of speakers at a conference here today, called by the United States department of labor.

Among the speakers was Herbert S. Hadley, former governor of Missouri, now professor of law at the University of Colorado.

"This is not a problem of reconstruction. But it is a problem of readjustment.55

Calling attention to the decrease in imigration of 4,000,000 in the last four years and the desire of aliens now in this country to return to the country of their birth the speaker asserted in six months the problem would not be one of finding a job for men but of finding men for the job.

Mayor Mills said that every former city employe returning from military or naval service is being given back his old place, but the city's experience has been that the soldier is not satisfied with the sort of work he did before the war and that most of them either refuse the job or quit after a short time.

WILL DECIDE ON TERMS OF NEXT LOAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8—Terms of the "Victory" Liberty Loan to be offered to the nation this spring wil be decided shortly by Secretary Glass so that necessary legislation may be enacted at this session of congress. This legislation will provide for an additional authorization to supplement the $5,000,000,000 already provided and for an increase in the interest rate above 4¼ per cent if the treasury should decide to raise the rate. In addition congress must authorize extension of tax exemption on bonds of the forthcoming loan or of past issues in accordance with any plan which the treasury may devise. According to present plans of Secretary Glass the campaign will open about April 21.

WRESTLERS MATCHED

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, of Lexington, Ky., challenger for the heavy-weight wrestling championship and Joe Stetcher of Dodge, Neb., the former champion were matched tonight to meet in a finish contest here March 3rd for a purse of $10,000. The winner will receive $6,000 and the loser $4,000 in addition to motion picture privileges. The match, according to the articles of agreement must result in a decisive victory or the spectators will have their money refunded.

RELATIONS BETWEEN ITALY AND GREECE CORDIAL

London, Feb. 8.—(British Wireless Service.)—The progress toward a world settlement has been greatly accelerated in the last ten days, according to the Paris correspondent of the Morning Post. He says that the relations between Italy and Greece are not much more cordial as the result of diplomatic intervention. The consiliatory attitude of Premier Venizelos is declared to have exerted influence far beyond the relations between Italy and Greece.

DISCUSSES GERMAN-POLAND SITUATION

Former Ambassador from Berlin to Great Britain Opposed to Surrendering Portion of Germa Territory to Poland.

Berlin, Tuesday, Feb. 4.—(By The Associated Press.)—The surrendering of any portion of German territory to Poland would mean not only that that portion would be dragged down to a level of a les effective, less orderly and less developed economic administration with its resultant great economic damage to the inhabitants of the lands affected but would destroy northern Germany.

This conviction was expressed to The Associated Press by Prince Lichnowsky, the former German ambassador to Great Britain in the course of a long conversation concerning peace questions. Prince Lichnowsky is a large estate owner of upper Silesia and lives there for most of the year.

It is understood that he is to be a member of the German peace delegation. In his opinion it is misleading to speak of any Prussian districts as having an "undoubted Polish population".

In upper Silesia there are districts, he admits in which the Poles have a numerical preponderence, but the cities and villages, he says are preponderately German, as are nearly all the industries and larger land holdings He contends that the Poles here are not real Poles as they do not even speak Polish, but a dialect.

The material condition even of the Poles themselves, according to Prince Lichnowsky would become much worse if they came under what he termed "Polish anarchy" and they were cut off from Germany.

Industries and coal mines would be ruined if they lost the German market. Transportation to German consumers would be impossible without railway rebates such as have long been granted.

Of Posen and West Prussia, Prince Lichnowsky said.

'These provinces were at the census of 1910 inhabited by 1,946,663 Germans and 1,861,942 Poles It is well nigh impossible to trace a clear line of demarkation between the German and Polish districts. Of the seventy two counties making up the two provinces not a single one boasts a purely Polish population.'

To surrender Posen said Prince Lichnowsky would mean bringing the Polish state into the vicinity of Berlin; the surrender of West Prussia would isolate East Prussia completely from Germany and the extension of Polish rule to Liban would cut off Germany utterly from Russia. From geographic as well as economic conditions he continued, the natural and real solution of the Polish question is for Poland to become part of the greater Russian federal republic. That would solve at the same time the question of a Polish seaport and a Polish market.

Prince Lichnowsky declared that a propaganda was being carried on by the Poles in the German border districts, and that a strike movement had been inaugurated in upper Silesia by Polish agitation. It had assumed a decidedly Bolsheviki character he added, "the strikes saying above all that no military measures should be taken to protect the frontier against the Poles."

He proposed as a solution of the Polish and Czecho-Austrian problems the union of all parts of former Russia, including Poland and Galicia into a united states of Russia and similar union of German-Austrian, Czecho-Slovak, Magyar and Slovenia states with the inclusion of Triest, on condition that Germany keep her eastern boundaries, which he declared, "are indispensable for a peaceful for an effective reconstitution."

ISLANDERS TO PRESENT APPEAL

London, Dec.—Residents of the Dodecanese islands recently arrived in London with an appeal to President Wilson, Premier George and Premier Clemenceau of France, that their twelve islands in the Aegean Sea, which were controlled by Turkey, be reunited with their mother country, Greece. Dr. Skevos Zervos and Paris Roussos are signers of the petition as "the executive committee of the inhabitants of the Dodecanese."

"The Dodecanese," the petition says, "where Herodotus, the father of history, and Hippocrates, the father of medicine, have seen the day; the Dodecanese, which have reared and inspired so many poets, physicians and philosophers, fervently request you to kindly intercede in favor of their reunion with Greece, and to plead at the Peace Conference for their deliverance."

Italy now controls some of the Dodecanese islands.

MEXICAN'S CAPTURE CAUSEES EXCITEMENT

Mexico City, Jan. 24.—The War Department has announced the capture of Ignacio Morelos Zaragoza, former federal general, who has been operating against the government in the state of Nuevo Leon. The prisoner, woh was captured at a ranch in Nuevo Leon, has been taken to Monterey for trial. Zaragoza defended Tampico under the Huerta regime against the constitutionalists under General Pablo Gonzales. He surrendered, sought amnesty, then fled to the United State, later returning to Mexico and operating in conjunction with Juan Alamazan. He is of advanced age. His capture caused some excitement in Monterey, where he is well known and has many relatives.

FAVORS CREDIT FOR BUILDING OPERATIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—No valid reason now exists "why sufficient credit should not be made available for useful building operations," said Secretary Glass in a statement today.

"The impression seems to exist" he said, "that policies initiated during the war by Secretary McAdoo and by the federal reserve board for the conservation of credit are still fully effective and are responsible for inactive building trades.

"Consequently many of the policies which were adopted to meet war needs are now out of date. My own impression is that inactivity in the building trades is directly traceable not to any insufficiency of credit but to the continuance of abnormally high costs."

ALLACE RICE TALKS N USE OF GOOD ENGLISH

lls Woman's Club More Care Should be Taken in Use of Language—Best English Spoken on Stage.

Better acquaintance with the nglish language and more care its use was urged by Wallace ice of Chicago in an address be- re the Woman's Club at its ncheon held in Central Chris- an church Saturday afternoon. Two hundred and twenty-six embers of the club were pres- t at the luncheon which was rved in faultless manner by the dies of Central Christian church. he gathering was called to order Mrs. Miller Weir, president of e club, who introduced Mrs. hn J. Reeve, who said grace. Following the luncheon Mrs. Weir called upon the secretary, rs. W. D. Doying, who read the inutes of the previous meetings. his report was a most compre- ensive one and told of the many war activities engaged in by the club.

Mrs. Weir followed this with her annual address in which she spoke of the great work that still lies before the club. Mrs. Weir said:

Mrs. Weir's Address.

I am indeed very glad to meet you again after the lapse of many months. Little did we think when we parted at the May morning breakfast that nearly nine months would go by before we should be permitted to meet again. How well I remember our last wish at parting, "When next we meet, may victory be in sight."

How fast events have followed each other since then. The war is over, victory is ours and the nations of the earth are gathering together making terms of peace and searching for ways and means which will make another world war impossible.

But in the midst of our songs of victory another menace appeared, a dark cloud arose, spread over us, and soon the whole world was struggling with an unseen foe. Activities ceased and for a while we were in suspense, not knowing which way to turn for relief.

Now that cloud is passing and we are coming out in the sunshine again. And so it is with thankful hearts that we come together this afternoon to resume our club meetings, and we hope and expect that they will not again be interrupted and that those omitted earlier in the session will be made up before the year is over.

Club Work Has Gone on.

And no one must be permitted to think that because we have not held our meetings that the work of our club has not gone on, for such is not the case. We have given $100 to the United War Work, adopted two French orphans, and not forgetting our home charities, we are giving $10 a month to the Social Service League. And that is only a small part of what we hope to do, for as the reconstruction work of the world goes on we shall receive many calls in the great cause of humanity.

The first of all will be for Armenian relief, and we shall deem it a privilege to add our mite to the gift of every woman's club in the state, and that will be increased by every club in the United States, for as we contemplate their condition, our hearts melt with pity, for even the sufferings of the Belgians pale before the tortures inflicted by the Turks upon the Armenians, that oldest of Christian nations. But all of those things are for the future and will be taken care of as they arise, and now we will consider the present, for today we are anticipating an afternoon of great pleasure.

The president then introduced Miss Rebecca Scheibel of the faculty of the School for the Blind who sang a group of songs. Miss Scheibel is always heard with pleasure by Jacksonville audiences. She was in splendid voice on this occasion and her audience gave enthusiastic approval.

In the absence of Mrs. Ben Lurton, chairman of the committee on education, Mrs. Weir introduced Hon. H. H. Bancroft who in turn introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Wallace Rice, of Chicago.

H. H. Bancroft Presented Mr. Rice

Mr. Bancroft in his brief introductory remarks told of his association with Mr. Rice in the recent centennial celebration. He paid Mr. Rice a high compliment both as an organizer and as the author of the Masque of Illinois, which was twice presented in Springfield in conjunction with the centennial.

"His name," said Mr. Bancroft, "is indissolubly linked with the centennial work and his work gives him a distinction that no words of mine can add to and I therefore take great pleasure in introducing to you Mr. Wallace Rice."

In his opening remarks Mr. Rice said it would be his purpose to show the need of greater care in the use of the English language and the pronunciation of words.

"The singing," said the speaker, "has given me a full heart and the luncheon has filled me otherwise."

"I will speak to you this afternoon about good English and tell you what I know about it. It is best to start first with what stands for good English. The answer is that those who speak it best are the ones who give the most attention to it.

"William Dean Howells once said 'the thing that surprised him most about England was that it was populated by the English.'

"America is populated by Americans in some places. It may be true in this city. However, it is not true in Chicago. At a banquet given at one time in Chicago seventy-six different languages were spoken.

Actors Speak Best English.

"The best exponents of good English in America today are the actors and actresses. Julia Marlowe, one of the best known actresses on the American stage, is regarded as the most intelligent reader in this country of blank verse."

Replying to a question once asked him as to the best way to get our children to speak better English, Chatfield Taylor said the best way was to get the teachers to speak better English.

"Otis Skinner once told me," said Mr. Rice, "that he was compelled to send to England for actors to play juvenile characters because those in this country could not speak the kind of English necessary for stage work."

However, Mr. Rice is of the opinion that America is progressing in the use and pronunciation of English. He said that the English used by E. S. Willard, the actor, thirty years ago, was being used by Americans at the present time. Thirty years from now he predicted that Americans would have progressed so that they would be using the English that is used by Forbes Robertson, the noted English actor of the present day. So the language progresses with the years despite dictionaries.

Favors Singing in English

"We have gotten rid of most of the harsh and disagreeable sounds in our language," said Mr. Rice. "However, I am interested in the question of singing in English. The singers themselves are the strongest opponents of singing in English. We must not only write our own operas but also the librettos to get away from European composers.

"The greatest poetry in the world is written in the English language." The speaker referred to Shakespeare as the greatest genius of all time. He also referred to Browning, Whittier and Longfellow as writers of some of the greatest works in the English language. One thought Mr. Rice brought to his hearers was that one must know the English language before one can write good poetry.

Only one universiey in America teaches the use of good English. Later in answering questions Mr. Rice in reply to one as to which university he referred to, said it was Harvard. Good English in the opinion of the speaker, was a sign of class. He referred to the teachers in the Chicago schools who are for the most part children of immigrants, as misteaching children the English language.

Correct Pronunciation

In commenting upon the pronunciation of words, Mr. Rice said it was deplorable that so large a proportion of the population of this state in pronouncing Illinois pronounced it as tho spelled "Illanois."

"English," said the speaker, "is as much the language of America as it is of England. Hence we have just as much right to change it. The best English is spoken in New England and especially in Massachusetts. The language is constantly growing. As it grows there come changes in pronunciation.

"We have eliminated nearly all of the harsh consonants that were in the language in its beginning. The language was different in Shakespeare's time. There was a change during the reign of Queen Anne. And it is changing now. We should show a deference to our language and speak it with reverence."

The speaker told of the change in England in using the words dreampt for dreamed and burnt for burned. He also referred to the pronunciation of the word running and pronouncing it 'runnin.' "This," said Mr. Rice, "is correct.

He also referred to the use of slang and said that it was permissable unless the person using it was ignorant of the fact and did not know slang from good English.

At the close of his address Mr Rice invited questions and a number availed themselves of the opportunitw of getting the correct pronunciation of words about which there are many differences of opinion.

SOME WHEAT FIELDS

Louis Hahn of this city has returned from a visit with his mother who is 86 years old and a resident of Hillview. Mr. Hahn says he sees a great change in the condition of the land about the place since he was a boy. It was more or less wooded and worth but little as it was subject to overflow from the river. It has been cleared and now there is a stretch of wheat field seven miles by twenty, a levee protecting the land from the water. It mostly belongs to large owners who will probably have a huge crop this year.

D. B. THOMPSON WILL MAKE ADDRESS

David B Thompson, recently elected secretary of the Illinois Agricultural association, is to speak before the farmers club in Virginia Monday. Mr. Thompson is one of the best posted agricultural specialists in the state and was chosen to represent the farmers of the state in national questions because of his ability and experience.

Recently when H. J. Rice and H. E. Kitner attended a convention of the association in Peoria they became fully convinced of the advantage for the county farmers organization. These men, accompanied by others members of the Morgan County Farmers club, plan to go to Virginia Monday to hear Mr. Thopson's address. The full personnel of the party is not yet determined, but among the number probably will be Charles S. Black, H. J. Rice, H. E. Kitner, A. H. Crum, F. J. Blackburn, Charles A. Rowe, G. A. Leach, G. B. Kendall.

THE IRISH QUESTION

(By E. J. Cavegan, member of the supreme court of New York)

The following discussion of the Irish Question by E. J. Vavegan of the New York supreme court appeared in a recent edition of the Irish World and is published at the request of a number of Jacksonville citizens. The article is somewhat lengthy and so will be published in three installments the first of which appears below:

The following addres was delivered by Hon. Edward J. Cavegan, Friday, January 17, 1919, at the Baltimore Hotel before an audience of 500 society women, members of "The Women's Forum of New York City," an organization formed for the open discussion of current topics.

Among those present were:—Miss Helen Varick Boswell, Mrs. Oliver Harriman, Mrs. John H. Griesel, Mrs. I. L. Carbonell, Mrs. Amie Newman, Mrs. Marcus M. Macks, Mrs. Cahrles H. Butler, Mrs. Helen Allen LaVey, Miss Estelle Stephen.

At the end of the address there was a lively session of questions and answers, of which the following are samples.

A voice.—Is this not a two-sided question?

The speaker.—Certainly. I assume that it is the reason why I was invited to present to you the Irish side of the question, as the English side is so familiar to readers of American newspapers.

A voice.—What do you think of Horace Plunkett, Ireland's delegate to the peace conference?

The Speaker.—There is a confusion of names. Count Plunkett, a Sinn Feiner, is put forth as one of Ireland's delegates to the peace conference. Sir Horace Plunkett is a Unionist; esteemed, however, by the Nationalists as an honorable adversary, the anti-thesis of Carson, a paid attorney; and his work has resulted in much material good of a prosperous Ireland,—not a free Ireland. He is an Imperialist.

A voice—Why shouldn't Scotland have self-determination?

The Speaker.—For one thing, Scotland has no Ulster. But the main reason, which makes all others unimportant is, that Scotland appears to be content as she is.

A voice.—I am an Englishwoman, and I am sorry you forgot to tell us that a large percentage of the English people favor self-determination for Ireland.

The Speaker—Ithank you very much for supplying the omission.

Judge Gavergan's Address.

With the thirty minutes allotted, as we say in law, time would appear to be the essence of this contract. Thirty hours with a week between times for reading up would be none too much for the adequate presentation of a question which has concerned humanity for so many generations and the fortunes of a persecuted but persevering people for so many centuries. I cannot do more in so short a time than present to you a few sailent points with the very briefest outline, in the hope not so much of persuading you as of aiding you to understand the point of view of many millions of your fellow-cieizens of this country who are of Irish blood.

For a talk of this kind the subject naturally divides itself into four headings: The History of Ireland, Self-Determination for Ireland, American Sympathy, and last, but which seems to me most important, American interests.

(Here the speaker reviewed briefly the geography, topography and natural resources of Ireland and continued:)

Decrease in Population

The population of Ireland is a little over four million. About seventy years ago it was between eight and nine millions. Such an array of natural resources coupled with such an unparalleled decrease in population is followed most naturally by an interrogation mark. The inevitable answer is, misgovernment, which to the Irish means foreign government.

Until the Elglish invasion (12th century) Ireland was a free and independent country, having its own language, literature and laws. Its civilization was old when Rome was still young. After the English invasion, the history o' Ireland may be summed up in four words, "Seven centuries of oppression." To some of you it may seem a strong statement to make, that Ireland through many generations, and hundreds of years suffered a fate worse than that from which Belgium is now emerging but the statement is borne out by history, corroborated by English historians, and the statement is true.

Alien Landlordism.

It is not my purpose, however, to shock your sensibilities, or revive bitter memories by going into harrowing details. The English themselves are now frankly ashamed and sorry for the acts of their ancestors. The Irish want to forgive them, but they say that contrition is only one prerequisite to absolution, another important one being, restitution. Suffice it to say that if you can picture a small nation of people overcome by superior physical force, prohibited by law from acquiring legal title to their own land, compelled to pay exorbitant rents to alien landlords who raised the rents according as the tenants improved the land until all motive for husbandry or industry, beyond keeping body and soul together, was destroyed; deprived by law of the consolation of their own religion, forbidden to use their own language, or to develop their industries or commerce, a part of her territory colonized by armies of the invaders, who, being of different race, religion, and language, under a policy of "First divide and then destroy," were made the beneficiaries of special legislation—if aided by your own observation during the past few years, you can visualize these things, you will be able to understand why there are so few Irish in Ireland and so many Irish in other parts of the world, why the Irish in Ireland are unhappy under English rule and want to be free, and why the Irish in America want to help them.

Bitter Periods of Persecution

One of the bitterest perods of persecution in Ireland followed the successful revolt of our American colonies against England, and sprang from English resentment at the large number of Irishmen in our Revolutionary forces, amoounting, according to the English historian Lecky, to over fifty per cent.

Ever since that example set by the American colonies each and every generation of Irishmen has asserted the right of self-government, even to the point of open rebellion, from 1708 to 1916.

Although Irish representation in the British House of Commons constituted only a negligent minority, still it gave the Irish an opportunity tobe heard in a forum through which they could reach the public opinion of England and sometimes of the outside world. By persistent appeal to conscience and by resorting to the parliamnetary weapon of obstruction they succeeded in securing the passage of several important acts, outstanding ones being the Catholic Emancipation Act in 1832 and the so-called Land Act in 1903.

Land Act a Good Business Deal for England.

Without belittling the beneficience of the Land Act as a valuable concession, it is only just to remember that the British exchequer, out of which payment for the land was advanced, by the Government of Great Britain, was the same exchequer into which Ireland's taxes were paid. In relation generally to English money spent in Ireland it must be remembered that it is only a small part of the money which the Irish people pay into the British exchequer in the form of taxes. The Land Act was a good business deal for England and it gave hope and opportunity to the agricultural section of Ireland, at the same time increasing England's meat supply from a convenient source. It soon transpired, however, that Ireland was suffering from destructive competion with Argentina and Austria in the raising of cattle. Having no diversity of products, Ireland in 1905 found herself again at the mercy of England with nothing to sell but cattle.

The Ulster Question.

You will be waiting to hear some mention of Ulster. Friends of England paint a picture of Ulster as if it were taken from the very heart of England and placed in the northeast corner of Ireland in a strong and unfriendly environment needing and deserving England's perpetual protection. The facts of history show, however, in spite of the sending of large colonies of Scotch and English emigrants to take up confiscated land from which the Irish owners had been driven, that Ulster is today not an English shire but a province of Ireland. Nor is there any ground for the impression that Ulster is distinctively Protestant in its population, the fact being that there are about 600,000 Protestants to 900,000 Catholics, over 45 per cent. of the whole population. Again with regard to Ulster political solidarity, her quota in the House of Commons was 33 of which 17 yere Nationalists. As to the comparative wealth of Ulster, the taxable rate per capita is there only in round numbers £3 1-2 as against £4 1-2 per capita in Leinster. The much heralded superiority of Uister in manufacturing industries as compared with other parts of Ireland is easily accounted for. Of course the man or woman has not yet been born with the hardihood to challenge the Scotch for thrift and economy. Our genial philosopher Patrick Francis Murphy has observed that this reputation was well founded even as far back as the beginning of our Christian era, for when the problem arose of feeding the multitude with five loaves and two fishes the one selected as steward to superintendent the feast and who collected several baskets full left over was none other than St. Andrew, the patron Saint of Scotland. When we remember, however, that England in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries absolutely destroyed the well established and prosperous Irish wolen, cotton and glass manufacturing industries because of their successful competition with those same industries in England, and left in Ireland only the linen industry which was almost wholly confined to Ulster, the contrast is easy to understand.

Ireland's Troubles Due to Industrial Causes

The unhappy condition of Ireland during the past century in spite of Ulster's special privilege was quite general, extending to most of the nine counties of that province, for government statistics show that emigration from Ulster during the period from 1851 to 1910 was nearly a million and a quarter. Ireland's troubles are largely traceable to industrial causes and not as England would have us believe in religious and racial antipathy between the north and the south. In Ulster the Protestant lives in neighborly relation with the Catholics who are there in a large minority. In the south of Ireland the Catholic lives in peaceful relations with his Protestant neighbors who are there in a very small minority. Some of the Protestants in Ulster are opposed to any measure of Home Rule which includes any part of Ulster. The Protestants of the south are opposed to any measure of Home Rule which excludes Ulster.

A disinterested correspondent sent by an American newspaper to investigate conditions in Ireland reports that the greed and tenacity of a handful of Ulster capitalists who have been able to impose their views upon their equally tenacious but misguided adherents have been the chief cause of England's inability to placate the Irish people as a whole. That Ulster, the source of so much embarrassment to England, is the child of her own loins; hence England has been loath to coerce Ulster. The capitalist leaders of Ulster have shrewdly taken advantage of that relationship to get all they can and keep all they get even to the point as you know of threatened armed rebellion.

WEAKNESS REMAINS LONG AFTER Influenza

Reports Show That Strength Energy and Ambition Return Very Slowly to Grippe Patients.

After an attack of influenza, doctors advise that nature be assisted in its building-up process by the use of a good tonic—one that will not only put strength and endurance into the body, but will also help to build up and strengthen the run-down cells of the brain.

One of the most highly recommended remedies to put energy into both body and brain is Bio-feren—your physician knows the formula—it is printed below.

There's iron in Bio-feren—the kind of iron that makes red blood corpuscles and creates vigor. There is lecithin also; probably the best brain invigorator known to science. Then there is good old reliable gentian, that brings back your lagging appetite.

There are other ingredients that help to promote good health, as you can see by reading this formula, not forgetting kolo, that great agent that puts the power of endurance into weak people.

Taken altogether Bio-feren is a splendid active tonic that will greatly help any weak, run-down person to regain normal strength energy, ambition and endurance.

Bio-feen is sold by all reliable druggists and is inexpensive. For weakness after influenza patients are advised to take two tablets after each meal and one at bed time—seven a day, until health, strength and vigor are fully restored.

It will not fail to help you and if for any reason you are dissatisfied with results your druggist is authorized to return your money upon request—without any red tape of any kind.

Note to physicians: There is no secret about the formula of Bio-feren, it is printed on every package. Here it is: Lecithin; Calcium Glycero-phosphate; Iron Peptonate, Manganese Peptonate; Ext. Nux. Vomica; Powdered Gentian; Phenolphthalein; Olearsin

A NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Miss Kelly Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

Newark, N. J.—"For about three years I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compound ever since and give you my permission to publish this letter."—Miss Flo Kelly, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, N. J.

The reason this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, was so successful in Miss Kelly's case was because it went to the root of her trouble, restored her to a normal healthy condition and as a result her nervousness disappeared.

RUB YOUR BACK! STOPS LUMBAGO

Back hurt you? Can't straighten up without feeling sudden pains, sharp aches and twinges? Now listen! That's lumbago, sciatica, or maybe from a strain, and you'll get blessed relief the moment you rub your back with soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Liniment!" Nothing else takes out soreness, lameness and stiffness so quickly. You simply rub it on and out comes the pain. It is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Limber up! Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store, and after using it just once, you'll forget that you ever had backache, lumbago or sciatica, because your back will never hurt or cause any more misery. It never disappoints and has been recommended for 60 years. Stop drugging kidneys! They don't cause backache, because they have no nerves, therefore can not cause pain.—Adv.

"That's the Best Investment I Ever Made"

Ask Avery owners what they think of their tractors and they will often use these words, "That's the best investment I ever made." Here's why:

They are able to do their work cheaper, faster and better than they did when they used animal power. The use of the Avery tractor increases their crops because they are able to do their work at the right time, plow deeper and put their seed bed in better condition. Then, too, they enjoy life more because they have less chores to do—you know you don't have the chores with a tractor that you do with horses. Finally, Avery tractors save expense—you can't turn a switch and stop a horse eating like you can a tractor.

An avery tractor is the best farm investment you can make—you will never regret it. To insure prompt delivery you should talk the matter over with us right away. Remember there's a size Avery for every size farm.

Does Your Husband Drink? Druggist Tells How to Cure the Liquor Habit at Home

Prescription Can be Filled at Any Drug Store and Given Secretly

J. J. Brown, a Cleveland man, for many years a confirmed drunkard. His friends and relatives despaired of ever redeeming him. His sister sought the best medical men in Europe in the hope that she might find something which would cure him. Finally she was recommended to an eminent chemist, who gave her a private formula (the same as appears below) and told her to use it. She had it filled at the drug store and gave it to him secretly. The results were startling. In a few weeks he was completely cured. That was over ten years ago and he has not touched a drop since. He now occupies a position of trust and is enthusiastic in his efforts to help others overcome the liquor habit. He feels that he can best do this by making public the same formula which cured him. Here is the prescription: Tescum powders. Drop one powder twice a day in coffee, tea or any liquid. It is harmless, tasteless and odorless and cannot be detected. You can use it without the knowledge of anyone. A lady who recently tried it on her husband reports: My husband was on a spree when I got the powders, and he usually stays drunk from three to four weeks at a time. After putting the powder in his coffee for four days, he sobered up and has not taken a drink since, and says he is through with it forever. He also complained that whiskey did not taste the same. I shall not tell him what did it, but I am grateful for this help and I shall recommend it wherever possible.

NOTE — A leading druggist when shown the above article said: "Yes, Tescum is a very remarkable remedy for the drink habit. It is harmless, wonderfully effective and is having an enormous sale. I advise everyone who wishes to destroy the liquor habit to give it a trial." It is sold and guaranteed in Jacksonville by Armstrong & Armstrong.

LINCOLN AS A LEGISLATOR

(Published at this time on account of the approach of Lincoln's birthday, February 12th.)

Lincoln established himself as a resident of New Salem July, 1831.

Aftr a residence of 8 months and just after making an excellent speech at a debating society he had so established himself in the hearts and confidence of the village and surrounding country that his friends very earnestly solicited him to announce himself as a candidate for the Legislature.

This he at first declined to do saying it was impossible for him to be elected. But when it was country would bring him promi- suggested that a canvass of the nently before the people and would be of great benefit to him later on, he decided to do so. He announced his candidacy in a printed circular dated March 6, 1832, setting forth his platform and his ideas of matters of local importance, ending in these words

"Every man is said to have his peculiar ambition. Whether it be true or not I can say for one that I have no other so great as that of being truly esteemed of my fellowmen by remembering myself worthy of their esteem. How far I shall succeed in gratifying this ambition is yet to be developed..

"I am young and unknown to many of you.

"I was born and have ever remained in the most humble walks of life.

"I have no wealth or popular relations or friends to recommend me.

"My case is thrown exclusively upon the independent voters of the country; and if elected they will confer a favor upon me for which I shall be unremitting in my labors to compensate. But if the good people in their wisdom shall see fit to keep me in the background, I have been too familiar with disappointments to be very much chagrined.'

He entered the Black Hawk war in April, 1832, and was mustered out July 10, of the same year. Upon returning home he resumed his candidacy , the election taking place Aug. 6.

Lincoln was a Henry Clay Whig and the county was strongly democratic. However there were no party lines drawn on Lincoln. His first political speech was made at the village of Papsville after a sale. Peter Cartwright a pioneer Methodist preacher was Lincoln's opponent and defeated him at the election but was in turn defeated for congress by Lincoln in 1846. However as indicating his standing among those who knew him, out of 290 votes cast at New Salem Lincoln received 277. Some one aptly remarked "There happened to be 13 who didn't know him."

This was the only time during his life, when he was defeated by direct vote of the people.

Lincoln Again a Candidate

In the spring of 1834 Lincoln was again a candidate for the legislature, and early started his canvass.

To quote from "Lincoln and New Salem," a book published by the "Old Salem Lincoln League" "In this campaign Lincoln rode about the country meeting the people and soliciting at any place he immediately made friends with the children, and gathered the smaller ones upon his knees and the others about him, he would entertain them while the busy mother prepared the meal.

If the men folks were engaged in mowing grain, splitting rails or putting up hay, he would rest them by taking turns with them.

Whatever they were engaged in doing, he could and did do as well or better than they, his great strength and seasoned muscles standing him in a good stead.

In this manner he made friends wherever he went and by his good humored jokes and stories interested and entertained them.

But his versatility did not end here.

Upon all the live questions of the day, he talked with convincing eloquence and logic.

To see him was not always to know him.

Dr. Barrett a man of parts and a staunch Whig upon seeing Lincoln the first time said to one of his friends: "Can't the party raise anq better material than that?"

However after hearing his speech the Doctor was filled with amazement and declared "Lincoln knows more than all the other candidates put together." The election took place the first part of August and of the four candidates Lincoln was second best.

Lincoln's Third Candidacy.

Again in the spring of 1836 Lincoln decided to make the race for the legislature. At the preceding term, the legislature had increased the number of its representatives in Sangamon County to seven and two senators, making nine in all.

There being no nominating conventions, the right to be a candidate was open for all.

Lincoln again made his announcement by means of a political hand bill, in which he set forth his platform in these words. "I go for all sharing the privileges of the government who assist in bearing its burdens Consequently I go for admitting all whites to the right of suffrage who pay taxes or bear arms, by no means excluding females. If elected I shall consider the whole people of Sangamon my constituents, those who opposed as well as those who supported me.

While acting as their representative I shall be governed by their will on all subjects upon which I have the means of knowing what their will is, and upon all others I shall do what my own judgment teaches me will best advance their interests.

"Whether elected or not I go for distributing the proceeds of sales of public lands to the several states to enable our state in common with others, to dig canals and contsruct railroads without borrowing money and paying interest on it. If alive on the first Monday in November, I shall vote for Hugh L. White for President."

"Very Respectfully,
"A. Lincoln."

At the ensuing electing the whole Whig ticket was elected. Lincoln receiving the largest number of votes of any of the nine.

They were all large men averaging in height over six feet, and in weight over two hundred pounds and as this was the largest delegation from any district and as they all worked together they soon became known as the "long nine."

The most important matter to his own constituents that was done by this legislature was the removal of the state capital from Vandalia to Springfield.

The management of the bill for this purpose was entrusted to Lincoln.

On their return from Vandalia the "long nine" were met and escorted to Springfield by a triumphal procession. They were welcomed by public dinners and much speech making and their praises sung by the local orators and inhabitants. Lincoln receiving the "lion's share."

DONT SCOLD, MOTHER! THE CROSS CHILD IS BILIOUS, PEEVISH

Look at Tongue! If Coated, Clean Little Stomach, Liver, Bowels.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, foll of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food passes out of bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grownups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Adv.

MODERN HOSPITAL OPERATED IN COBLENZ

By Medical Corps of Army of Occupation—Four Other Hospitals Equipped and Functioning as Base Hospitals.

With the American Army of Occupation, Jan. 10.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—One of the most modern hospitals in Europe today is in Coblenz operated by the Medical Corps of the Army of Occupation. The hospital is a combination of American and German advancement in this line. During the war, this hospital, now used for surgical cases and known as American hospital No. 6, was a part of the garrison of Coblenz. When the Germans withdrew they left all the modern electrical appliances, and the Americans brought with them the latest improvements in hospital equipment which was used in furnishing No. 6.

Four other hospitals, under American supervision, are being operated in Coblenz, one of them with fifteen hundred beds. Within the occupied area, there are nine American hospitals, including the five in Coblenz. Two of these are in Trier, one in Prum and another in Mayen.

While these are known as evacuation hospitals each of them is equipped and is functioning as a base hospital, being located in buildings either used by the Germans for the same purpose or in old German army barracks. The hospital staffs consist of about forty officers each. Approximately one hundred nurses have been assigned to each of the nine hospitals, in addition to a large number of enlisted men.

The medical corps of the Third Army is headed by Colonel J. W. Grissinger of Philadelphia, as chief surgeon, with Colonel H. C. Maddox of Orange, Virginia, in charge of the hospitals.

OBITUARY

Nancy Morlan was born in Wayne county, Ohio, on Sept. 16, 1842. She came to Borgan county, Ill., with her father, the Rev. Jas. A. Morlan when a little girl, and has since made this county her home.

She was married to Wm. F. Fanning Oct. 31, 1861, and to this union were born Verdie, now Mrs. John Smith of Arnold, Nebr.; George W. of Laramore, N. Dakota; Elizabeth, now Mrs. R. N. Henry of Blanchard, N. Dakota; Anna, now Mrs. J. H. Daley of Alton, Illinois; Mabel, wife of W. E. Clerihan of Berwick, Illinois., and Ernest L., of Larimore, N. Dakota. Besides thees children, who survive with the husband, there were Elmer, Charles and Clara who died in infancy.

When only a girl she was born into the kingdom of our Lord and Redeemer, and ever enjoyed the blessings that come to the life of the faithful consistent Christion character. She was for many years, and until her death a faithful member of the Murrayville Baptist church, and she goes from the membership and brotherhood of the people there into the place prepared for her from the beginning of the world.

In the home she was a loving, faithful wife and mother, and a real home builder. She was quiet and unassuming in her manner and always extended to her many friends the hospitality of her home.

While visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Smith of Arnold, Nebraska, complications incident to old age brought to a close, on Feb. 4, 1919, a long and useful life.

Her many qualities, so united to make a most beautiful Christian character, might well be sought as examples for us who are left to follow.

Funeral services were held Friday morning at eleven o'clock in the Baptist church at Murrayville with interment at Nortonville cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. W. F. Fanning who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Smith in Arnold, Nebr., were held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the Murrayville Baptist church, in charge of Rev. Roy March of White Hall.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful and were cared for by Mrs. W. E. McCurley and Mrs. L. B. Haynes. The bearers were George Jones, Albert Riggs, Francis Story, Jeptha Whitlock, G. A. Brewbaker, Lewis Sooy.

The singing was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. George Jones, William Wiswell, Mrs. O. N. Angelo and Mrs. W. B. Rimbey with Miss Reta Jones at the piano.

The children present from a distance were George and Ernest Fanning of Larimore, N. Dak.; Mrs. John Smith of Arnold, Nebr.; Mrs. J. H. Daley of Alton, Ill.; Mrs. W. E. Clerihan of Berwick, Ill.

Clark Stevenson of the region of Orleans was a city caller yesterday.

ILLINOIS WOMAN'S COLLEGE

The folowing new students have enrolled at the college for the second semester:

Alma Rush, Pittsfield.
Gladys Corbley, Paxton.
Bess Springer, Standfard.
Ruth Patton, Clarence.
Lillian Burke, Carlinville, Ill.

Mis Zula Van Gillimore of Carterville returned for the second semester's work after an absence of two months due to the illness of her mother.

The week ending February 8 has been both an interesting and busy week. The presence of Mrs. Nicholson and the services of the week of prayer, combined with the half holiday on the day of prayer have called for special application to the clas work Fortunately the second semester is still young so that the strain was not regretfully borne.

Dean Taylor, Miss Mary Whiteside and Miss Zerita Schwartz left Friday morning for Evanston, Ill. A life service conference of representatives from 14 colleges is in session thru Sunday night. The Centenary movement involves recruiting of the best young men and young women for specific fields of labor. The general plan of recruiting is the chief topic for discussion at the conference.

Miss Mariam Sipfle has been elected by the Y. W. C. A. as its delegate to the National Student conference to be held in Evanston February 20-23 inclusive. The work of the conference will be to consider the part that women students may have in the building of a new world.

Dr. R. O. Munson of Rushville, Illinois, who has been Captain in the army with more than 4 months service in France was the guest of the college Friday and Saturday. The captain received his discharge from Camp Taylor on Thursday and came without making any stop directly to the college where his daughter, Miss Hariam is a student. At the evening service Friday night Mrs. Nicholson called upon Captain Munson for a few remarks. With fine restraint he told of the need for Christian workers even in beautiful France. "Religion," he said, "must be made vital in the life of that nation or it will die."

The Phi Nu Society is greeting a number of its Alumnae members today for its annual celebration. It is difficult to decide whether the greater joy of meeting again is found among the present students or the former.

Mrs. Nicholson delivered the farewell message at evening prayers Friday night, taking the 9 o'clock Wabash for Chicago. There was a general feeling of regret at her departure for she had greatly endeared herself to all. Her personality, address and private interviews had revealed a genuine desire to be of help to those who were asking themselvce as to the best place and work for the investment of their lives. It is a matter of satisfaction to all when the work of the week is considered. Mrs. Nicholson will be remembered by loyal hearts thru all the coming years for the help and inspiration she has given. A most cordial welcome awaits her return.

GERMANS IN MEXICO SEEK GUARANTY

Mexico City, Jan. 20.—The German colony in Mexico City recently held a meeting at which was discussed the problem of securing some sort of guaranty from the present German government for the 10,000,000 marks which were lent to the German minister here, H. von Eckhardt, during the war, for propaganda and other purposes. The leaders at present have nothing more than "scraps of paper" issued by the former minister.

HEALTH CAMPAIGN IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Month of February Designated as Beginning of Campaign to Teach Right Habits of Liv"g to School Children — Badges Offered as Prizes.

It has been previously mentioned that Miss Grace Osborne, director of school activities of the Modern Health Crusaders of the state, has been in Morgan county for the past several days in the interest of the campaign now in progress. The month of February has been designated as the beginning of a health campaign in the public schools of the nation, and Miss Osborne is visiting various localities in the state for the purpose of explaining the work which is to be accomplished. Teachers, parents and others are being interested in the campaign, and is not too much to hope that Morgan county may be the winner of a state or national pennant

That approximately 98 per cent of all defects in adults are remediable during the days of childhood was a fact brought out by the examinations of men for army service, and it was a realization of this fact which led to the present campaign, the purpose of which is to teach right habits of living to the youth of the country. The program is endorsed by the Junior Red Cross Association in conjunction with the American Tuberculosis association. A program has been outlined for the spring months, to be carried on in conjunction with hygiene and physical training. The program is planned to cover a period of fifteen weeks, but in schools where this is not feasible the period may be shortened.

Pins or badges are to be offered to pupils as prizes for the performance of the health "chores." Each child is allowed to rank himself according to the chores he performs a folder being furnished for the purpose. The different ranks as shown by the various bades are Modern Crusade, Squires, Knights and Knights Banneret.

A VENERABLE OVERCOAT.

The bible tells us that during the forty years the children of Israel wandered in the wilderness their garments waxed not old and were not renewed till they reached the promised land when they had to look out for clothes the same as other people. Aaron Howe of Pisgah stepped into Tomlinson's store yesterday wearing an overcoat which he said he had bought of Mr. Tomlinson's father forty years ago and it was a pretty good coat yesterday. It had had some binding and minor repairs but had lots of wear in it yet. Mr. Howe said a tailor told him a similar coat today would cost fifty dollars.

A BUSY DAY

Yesterday was an unusually busy day especially after dinner. The square was filled with automobiles and the merchants were generally busy. Good roads attracted people from a long distance and every one said "How soon is this going to let up?"

LESLIE LANDRETH HOME FROM FRANCE

Jacksonville Soldier Wounded In Service on Western Front — Saw Many Places But Says Jackso"ville Is Best of All.

With overseas and wounded chervons on his uniform Leslie Landreth, son of Edward Landreth, of North Prairie street, arrived home Friday evening. He enlisted Dec. 21, 1917 and spent his first four weeks at Jefferson Baracks, St. Louis, then went to Camp Sevier, South Carolina. After four months was transfered to the overseas service going to New York to sail.

He sailed on the steamer "President Lincoln" landing at Brest and went to the southern part of France, Maxien where he was trained in the use of gas masks, bayonet and gun practice. He was then transferred to Romantienor a hundred miles south of Paris to a station camp and there was made first class chauffeur and had charge of the convoys of autos to the front. At one time they had as many as 65 and there he saw strenuous work. He was in the Argonne forest battle taking truck loads of supplies to the troops with bullets and shrapnel whizzin all about.

The sights were dreadful. At one time he had to pass a place where there were 2,000 dead and wounded. Sometimes a man would seem to be holding the handles of his machine gun and examination would disclose the fact that he was dead. Men in tanks and all kinds of places lost their lives but he escaped. Once he started out after bidding the mechanic see to it that the motorcycle was all right but it was not and he came to grief, throwing him several feet away, badly injuring his right foot and rendering him unconscious.

The stretcher bearers came along and took him to the base hospital where he came to. He had to stay there quite a while and when he recovered they changed him to the areo divison and he was about to take his examination for a pilot when the armistice was signed.

He says the mustard gas mostly used would give a victim a bad cough and fever but a new gas would act like a piece hot metal on the body and he had seen men with holes in their forms big enough to hold a man's fist and running matter.

Men were wonderfully patched up. Some had metal plates supplied to their breasts; artificial limbs and eyes were common. He praises the work of the Salvation Army in most unmeasured terms. The girls would go right up to the firing line making good things for the men and cheering them up. The Red Cross and Knights of Columbus also came in for great commendation.

While he was away he saw Paris, London, New York, Washington and other places but thinks Jacksonvile the best of all.

On the way home they were detained at Brest sixteen days and had very poor accomodations but later General Pershing heard of it and righted affairs.

He sailed home on the "Mauretania" and on the way across they encountered an unusually severe storm which caused the plate of the ship to give and the ship to leak so that they had to use the pumps right lively.

LUNGMOTOR AT FIRE DEPARTMENT

Yesterday Chief Hunt asked the Journal to call the attention of citizens to the lungmotor at the fire dapartment. The apparatus was placed in the department several months ago and is always ready for use.

It is especially valuable in cases of drowning, electrocution and asphyxiation by gas. The installation of motor fire apparatus makes it possible to get it to the place it is needed without much loss of time.

Chief Hunt said yesterday that perhaps the Evans baby might have been saved had the fire department been called immediately after the accident. The lungmotor is for the use of the public and the department will respond promptly at all times to calls for its use.

THREE FIRE ALARMS

At 8:50 o'clock Saturday morning the fire department was called to the home of J. A. Palmer 1011 West College avenue where fire had started in the roof by sparks from a chimney. The property is owned by G. C. Rockwod and the loss which was small is fully covered by insurance.

The department responded to an alarm from the plant of the Illinois Bridge company at 4:35 o'clock Saturday afternoon. A stove in a small building used by the night watchman, J. M. Summers was smoking and an employe threw a bucket of water into the room while another turned in a fire alarm. No damage resulted.

COUNTY JUNIOR RED CROSS WORK PROGRESS!

Health Touranment and Support of War Orphans to Be Main Lines of Effort Duri"g the Spring Months.

A number of the schools of Morgan county have already qualified as Junior Red Cross Associations, which means that they are Auxiliaries of the Morgan County Chapter of the American Red Cross. To each school which fulfills the qualifications, 1919 Junior Red Cross Buttons have been issued as soon as possible.

The following list of schools already have qualified: Jacksonville High School, David Prince Junior High School, Jefferson School, LaFayette School, Washington School, Independence School, Franklin School, Morton School, Josephine Milligan School, Timber Edge School, Lost Grove School, Alexander School, Point School, Arcadia School, Strawn school, South Jacksonville School. The list includes all of the public schools for Jacksonville

Many other schools are reporting that they are working on the matter and will be ready for membership before the end of the campaign which is February 2nd. Chairman H. A. Perrin wishes again to call the attention of all rural school teachers to the necessity of sending in the blank the earliest possible time. Blanks which have been mailed to the indivdual teacher in the county should be returned now in order that the approval of the Central Division may be had without undue delay.

The Junior Red Cros Association will take up two lines of activities during the spring months. One is the health tournament, which fits in nicely with the hygiene instruction and the physical training as prescribed by the laws of the State of Illinois for public schools, and a second line of activity is that of supporting French and Belgium war orphans. The funds which are available will be turned into this channel and in a short time an announcement will be made of the names and addreses of war orphans which are being cared for by the Morgan County Red Cross will thus assist in taking up each of these children costs about $37. The Junior Red Cros wil thus assist in taking up Morgan County' quota of war orphans.

Letters of Interest from Morgan County Boys in the Country's Service.

sborne Boys Write From Germany

r. and Mrs. J. T. Osborne of rayville have two sons in the seas service. William H. orne is with Co. I, 125th In- ry, now stationed at Thal- sen, Germany. Benjamin T. orne is with Co. L, 22nd En- gineers, and is at Point DeMetz. Mr. and Mrs. Osborne have recently received the following letters from their sons, which will be read with interest by the many Morgan county friends of the young men:

Thalhausen, Germany,
Dec. 25, 1918.

Hello, Dear Home Folks, one and all. This leaves me feeling fine and hope you are all well. A Merry Christmas to you all. I received two letters from you all dated Nov. 25 and 26. I sure was glad to hear from you and was more than glad when I saw the letter from dad. My first letter from him written on Father's Day. Am going to carry it with me all the time.

Where are you all going to spend Christmas? I guess I will spend Christmas on the drill field. We are enjoying life, only this has been a lonesome day for me. I have been thinking about you all, and would sure love to see you. There are three of us away from home this Xmas. Brother and I and my dear sister. I sure thought of her today. We boys have a chance to return home but dear sister will never be there. But we all have a chance to meet her in Heaven, and I am going to try and meet her there. I received a letter from Brother Benj. yesterday and have written to him.

Well, we have reached our destination for a while, but don't know how long we will stay. We marched to the Rhine arriving there Dec. 10th and stayed one day on the other side. We marched across the Rhine Dec. 12th and reached our destination Dec. 13th, the whole 32d division, and that is the division I am in. Well, we are living with German people now. Yes, I saw General Pershing and he is some great man. We are having good eats and plenty of them. We had a swell dinner; had chicken and dumplings, apple sauce, coffee, bread.

The captain and lieutenants went out deer hunting today and got one and two of the boys went out and got one a piece. That makes three for the company. There are lots of deer over here and some fine timber for them. We are drilling now and we sure have a fine officer. The captain also is sure a fine man an thinks lots of his men and we do of him.

Well, about being on the front. I will tell you when I get home. Don't know just when we will be relieved, but just as soon as another division gets up here. Two other boys and I are staying with an old German. The other two boys are writing home. We are sitting around the table as this is Saturday night and there is no place to go. We never go anywhere for we have enough to do in the day time and we sure need the sleep. We never think of going anywhre for when we stop for awhile we are drilling or writing, and since we have been on this march we sure need the rest. We have hiked around 400 kilometers. A kilometer is 3-5 of a mile so you see we need the rest. 100 kilometers is 50 miles and that is 200 miles.

You can look on the map and see where we are. We have hiked the 200 miles in about 20 days and rested the rest, since Nov. 13th. Well the eats were scarce when we were up on the front because they couldn't get the grub up to us as the big shells were dropping fast. That was one time we hugged mother earth and lay in shell holes and thought we had a dandy home. We would hug the ground when we heard the big shells coming over. The airplanes would come over at night and drop the shells over in among us, but we could hear the big shells coming over and could dodge some of them unless they would cross fire on us. The last shell the Germans sent over killed a chaplain in the machine gun company.

I guess you have read what the 32nd division did on the lines. Glen Fisher is the only Murrayville boy with me. Wel, Tracy Fisher got wounded and I haven't heard from him since he was wounded and taken to the hospital which was Oct. 9th. That is the day we went over the top. When the captain told us we were going over the top we were raging to go, and didn't fear death at all. We had a number one commander, Captain Folles. He has been over here as long as the 32nd division has and went thru every battle without a scratch. He brings Co. I back and we think the world of him.

We were to have inspection this morning but the colonel didn't come, but guess he will tomorrow. He will inspect the battalion. We have been cleaning up our rifles as we have to have everything shining when he comes around. Co. I has the distinction of being the best company in the third battalion for everything; best in inspection and having clean guns and everything.

We sure have a good time and try to make everybody enjoy themselves. Well, we had an entertainment tonight, some of the boys of the second Pertime, that is the Pertime I am in. We had a little show and singing. They are going to give an entertaintainment New Year's night, just for Co. I.

Well, how is the weather back home? It has been raining here. Rains every day or night and has snowed some too. It sure would be a happy meeting if I could meet Benj. but don't suppose I ever will for I am too far up in Germany.

Well, tell everybody hello for me, and I must close for this time. Oh, yes, I thank you all for the Xmas box you said you had sent me, but I haven't received it yet. I will close, wishing you all a merry Xmas and Happy New Year.

Maybe I will be home in time to help with the spring work. I sure would love to see you all. I close with oceans of love to you all.

Your son,
Pvt. William H. Osborne.
Co. I, 125th U. S. Inf.

Pont DeMetz,
Dec. 30, 1918.

Dear Home Folks:

I haven't heard from you for a long time and the last letter was dated Nov. 24. But I am going to write to you anyway. Then this will be the last letter I will write to you in 1918, but if I live I will write to you in 1919. I hope you are all well and enjoying yourselves. I am O. K. only my feet trouble me when I have much walking to do. Its the one that was injured on the instep by the bridge plank. Outside of that I am O. K.

I have a good appetite and get plenty to eat and have a good place to sleep and plenty of clothes. We had a good Christmas dinner and a good breakfast. This is what we had for breakfast: beef steak, hot biscuits, jam, mush and milk and coffee. It snowed here the 24th but it did not last long. It has been real cold today, but it hasn't been so awfuly cold here yet. It is real damp over here most of the time. I hope you don't get the flu.

I received the Christmas box today, which you sent me and everything was O. K. and you don't know how glad I was to get it and I thank all the others who sent me something. I sure did enjoy the candy and all the rest. Russel Ogle, Frank Massey and Glen Stanley and myself always divide with each other when we get anything. We seem like brothers. I haven't received a letter from Bill yet.

We have been here in this place about a month. John Garvin and Art Clayton got back to the company after getting well of the mumps. We boys have lots of fun. I have got to go to Mannonville in the morning to take the captain's reports. It is seven miles one way. I guess I will make it O. K. even if my foot does hurt. Yes I have received several letters from all of you and it sure makes a fellow feel good to get a letter from home, and I was sure glad to get a letter from my dear old dad written on Father's Day. Am glad you are all O. K. Have often wondered how dad would make it this winter. We boys all want to come home and everything will turn out for the best, for our old Uncle will be sending us home some of these days. I would love to see Bill.

I have just received your letter dated Nov. 30 and am glad to get it. Seems almost like I have had a talk with you all.

Do you think you could count French money? I will be glad when I get some money that looks like money instead of wall paper. The first pay we received we all said we were going to paper the captain's mess tent. I was talking to a Frenchman this afternoon. He said his home was all shot down by the Boche and he had been in the trenches three years. He just wondered that he was alive after all he had been thru. It sure does me good for a bunch of us fellows to get together and sing some of the good old church songs. You must all take care of yourselves. They have taken our electric lights out and we don't get many candles, but I will write as often as I can.

Francis Herbert Writes From Germany

Mrs. Vesla Herbert of Meredosia precinct has received the following interesting letter from her son, Francis Herbert, who is with the American forces in Germany:

Angers, Germany,
Dec. 26, 1918.

Dear Mother:

Will write you a few lines tonight. I was going to write yesterday, but you know how it is on Xmas. We were all pretty busy yesterday eating Xmas dinner and candy. We got chocolate and cigarettes from the "Y" and a very good dinner from "Uncle Sam."

Yes, I have been getting your letters O. K. Some are a little slow about reaching me, but they are good when they do come. We have been moving for some time and have not had much time to write but I think we will be here for awhile and I am going to write more often. Yes, the people here treat us fine. Where I am at now it is much better than I have had since leaving the states. The lady cooks for us and treats us like a son. They are all glad the war is over and to be honest with you I think all the boys "over here" are glad it is over; I know I am.

So "Gay Boy" has been in some real fighting over here. Well, I would like to have had him with us a time or two when we would go "over the top" to cut some wire for the Marines on some of those drives and I would like to have had him at Chateau Thierry. Think if he is cooking as he said he was that the fights he had must have been with some one in "chow line" and not with the "Hun."

Well, I have seen that great river Rhine. It is about like the Illinois, but there is some pretty sights along the Rhine. We came across the line into Germany December 1st, and after about nine days of drilling we reached the Rhine and have been enjoying the sights along it ever since.

I wrote to Bessie some time ago and told her to write to you.

Well, it is getting late and I must close for this time but will write again soon. I have a pretty good job now; I am where I can clean up and look like a soldier. First time for about seven months.

Write when you can. Love to all.

GEO. SIMPKINS WRITES FROM OVERSEAS.

Bladbach, Germany, Jan. 2, 1919.
Co. A 126th Inf. A. P. O. 734.
A. E. F.

Mrs. Geo. W. Simpkins
R. No. 2 City.

Dear Mother:

I will write to you again to let you know that I am well as ever, and hoping this finds all the same at home. I guess we will stay here for a short time, don't know just how long. It was our luck to be on guard New Year's day. It is warmer in this town than it was back at Kurtscheid because it is down below the big hills or mountains, I would call them, not very far from the river and Kurtscheid is up on top of the hills. The snow is all melted here except on the tops of those mountains, we could see plenty of it this morning from our drill field the way the sun shone on it.

Well there is a show at the Y, tonight so I will let this go until I come back, then I'll finish. I have just got back, the show was sure fine, a bunch of band boys blacked up and they sure acted their parts well. The day we crossed the Rhine it poured down rain all day and we had to hike thru it, and believe me there was sure some traffic on the road that day crossing the river so we had to stand and wait on the road in the rain until our turn, so we got about wet thru. I have been broke for some time but I guess we will get paid off in a few days, but if I had money in my pocket, I don't know what I would buy as nearly every town we hit there is nothing that we can buy but lots of beer. It seems as tho they sure drink lots of beer. I sure don't care for it.

We have sure got a good warm place to sleep now in the kitchen on straw ticks, 3 blankets apiece now. This family sure are good to us they give us coffee, sugar, cream and bread and apple butter, every night we have supper at 4 o'clock, and they think it is too long to go from supper time until breakfast. I got a letter from Nellie H., the other day, was glad to hear from her, got an old tub the other day and I heated some water and took my first bath since I have been in this division and then put on clean clothes, so the cooties are not quite so bad as they were, but it don't take long for them to multiply. In one of our moves, we got in a house with some Germans. We had a room where they ate, sewed, and where the daughter entertained her beau came. I suppose he last night was Sunday night and her beau came. I snuppose he was somewhat disguested, at least I am sure she was when he first came in, for she sure blushed. He sat here in the room with us until nine thirty, he never took his hat off the whole time he was here. She was doing some work on her brother's army coat, sewing on buttons. We have been so used to going to bed about half past 5 or 6 o'clock, but he kept us up so late that we all over slept, didn't wake up until seven o'clock and breakfast is most always served at 6:30 o'clock and it sure was on time so we went without. I might as well say for some got two or three bites of bacon and the same of potatoes and some got nothing. For dinner we got one small piece of bread a cup of coffee and some bucket of it with beans and beer in it.

I think we are going to have bacon and soup for supper. We sure have had some hike since we have started. I don't know just how far we have come but I thing we have come something over two hundred and seventy-five miles. The shoes that I left the states with, I just turned in this morning for a second-handed pair that had been repaired, I had to put on two pair of sox to fill them out, to tell the truth a fellow sure needs two pair of sox for the ground is sure cold and damp. Yesterday we had to line up and be ready to present arms when General Pershing came by.

WITH THE COLORS

So yesterday we left at eight and hiked about six kilometers and had to wait until about ten thirty before he came, say we sure had cold feet standing around on this cold ground, for I didn't have but very thin soles left and no heels after making all those hikes over here in France and Germany, over hills and mountains. We have been having some rain nearly every day, and it has been trying to sleet and snow, so last night about two or three inches of snow was on the ground when we went to bed, but it is about all gone this afternoon. The family here where I stay are good to us they make mint tea for our colds, it sure is good, they say that it will help our colds for we sure have all got colds. Yesterday afternoon they made some waffles for us and at night they gave us an apple apiece. How is everybody at home, I sure would love to get a letter from home for it has been a long time since I have got any mail. I am hoping that the Germans will get that armistice signed before long so we can get started back for the states, I hope so and all the rest of the boys are looking for ward for that day to come too.

Well I thing I have told all I have time to write for this time. I must get to bed or I will be late getting up.

Love to all,

FROM PDIVATE THOMAS LAWSON.

The following letter was written to the Journal by Private Thomas Lawson, who is a member of 78th Co., transfer corps, with the American expeditionary forces in France:

Jan. 14, 1919.

Dear Editor:—

I will write another letter to your paper as you were kind enough to publish my letter written in August. I sure have received many letters in reply to that one. My friends will see that my address has been changed from 48th engineers to 78th Co., T. C. But there is one good thing and that is my old friends are still with me. Our whole company was transferred, so I think we are out of luck about coming home any time soon. Co., C, of our old regiment is now in Germany.

Well, as the censor is not so strict now I can tell more than I could in August, as we all know there is quite a change. We left Hoboken on August 1 on the U. S. S. Maine, and we certainly had a fine time crossing the water. On August 9 we were having great times, watching the large fish dive along by our boat, when suddenly we heard the sound of a gun and in an instant everything was busy, guns firing all the time and our officers trying to get us out of the navy boy's way. And of course we were anxious to see everything. It sure was an exciting time, but I was lucky for once, for I had just got on top of the hatch way and could see it all. But, believe me, I don't want any more of it. This kept up for some time, but as we had several sub-chasers with us we came out safe.

We landed at Brest on August 12, marched out to camp that night and the next morning I was put on detail and have never been released yet. So the war being over hasn't had much to do with the A. E. F., especially the engineers.

We left Brest Aug. 20 for Is-Sur-Tille, between Dijon and Chaumont, and have been there since, or rather, our headquarters have been there but we have been detailed on jobs at several other places. But what we want now is to come back home, for "corn Willie" and fried mush is beginning to look tough to us. I have a little joke which I think will suit:

Sunny France.

Of Sunny France I've often read,
And often longed to see
That far famed country,
That is now a home to me.
And now that I have seen it,
Seen all its things but one,
Often have I wondered
Just where can be the sun.

I've been here now for near six months,
And like it very well;
The people here are very kind
And like us, so they tell.
For four long years they've had this war,
And nobly stood the strain,
But often I have wondered
How in the deuce they've stood the rain.

Perhaps you think I'm kidding,
You folks in the U. S. A.
But I'm not, not in the least,
These things are true, I say.
It's raining now, so I guess I'll quit,
The day is almost done,
And while I write I'm wondering,
Just where can be the sun.

Will be glad to hear from any of my friends of Morgan county at any time.

Yours respectfully,
Pvt. Thomas J. Lawson.

FROM PRIVATE EDWARD DEFRATES.

Mrs. Mary DeFrates of route 8 has the following letter from her son, Private Edward DeFrates, who is with the 247th Military Police Co., 124th Battalion, A. E. F.:

Dec. 25th 1918.

Dear Mother:

Just a few lines to tell you about our happy Christmas in France. We received many presents from the Y., K. C. and our company, also got your package and was very glad to get it, but all the cigars were broken up. We just finished the last of the candy. Some of the boys helped eat the candy so they asked me when was I going to get another box so I told them next Christmas. They say that is too far away.

Hope you enjoyed Christmas and hope all the boys are over their sickness. Was Charlie home and what did he have to say? Where is sister and what is she doing? Have not heard from her for a long time. Hope she is well and enjoying life.

Did you ever find out about the letter that you sent with the check, as I never did get it and guess I never will, or it would have been here by this time.

I don't get much mail from you, don't you write or what seems to be the trouble? I will close as I have told you all the news, hoping these few lines will find every one O. K.

As ever,
Pvt. Edward DeFrates,

FROM LLOYD B. GREEN.

The letter printed below has just been received by O. W. Green of Prentice from his brother, Lloyd B. Green, with the American forces in France:

Poitiers, France, Dec. 20th '18

Dear Brother:

It seems ages since I have heard from you. I am O. K. at this writing and hope this finds all of you the same. I guess you are looking for me home soon, but don't think we will get to come for some time.

Has George B., ever come home yet? If so give him my best regards. I guess you are done shucking corn by this time. Did you ever have the flu? I haven't had it yet, and only hope I don't, haven't been sick a single day yet. Guess I had better not brag as it is never too late.

Well, Mill, I have seen lots of sights since I left home last, but don't care to ever see them again, altho I wouldn't take anything for my experience. Still I haven't had as much as some of the boys, but have seen plenty.

I think when I get back I will try and see America first before things have changed much since I left but some day we will be together again. How did Nellie Cashin ever get? I hope she is well but am afraid not. I would have tried to send something home Christmas but was afraid you would never get it. I didn't send any card home for a box Christmas as I didn't think it would be of any use at that time. I had a birthday the 9th you know, but didn't know it until the next day.

All the boys are wondering when we will leave for the states, but I don't care much if we don't come until spring, the weather isn't so bad here this winter, haven't had any snow here yet. They don't have any snow here so they say. I don't much like to cross that pond in the winter time.

We had some time coming over there were a few subs scattered around out there. I was wanting to see one so had all the time until one day, Sept. 7th, about 3 p. m., one came up and took a punch at our convoy. Hit the boat in the rear of us about 300 yards. That ship cut all kinds of capers, but finally stayed on top. Right then I had seen all the I cared to see. You probably read about that. It was the ship Persick. Ask Dock Harris about it. He will remember it. I wrote mother a letter the other day. I guess she thought I was never going to write, but its hard to get up enough ambition to write here.

Well, I guess I will have to close as all the boys are coming in now and [illegible] go to [illegible] close wishing all of you

Goodbye to all,
Lloyd B. Green.

FROM EDWARD E. WATERS

Mrs. T. C. Waters of 807 South Main street has received the following letters from her son, Edward E. Waters, with 122 Field Artillery, Battery E, 33d division, located in Luxemberg:

Lingten, Luxemberg, Jan 10, '18

Dear Mother:

At last after traveling thru France part of Belgum then into Luxemberg, Germany. We are now in billets at a small town just north of the city of Luxemberg.

The country is hilly and rough but has many pretty drives and canals. The country and towns are not torn up for good care has been taken of all land and property. Everything is high and these Luxembergers are not allowed much to eat, meat is about 75 cents to $1, (3 or 4 marks) per pound.

These Luxembergers speak German, some French and think a great deal of the Yanks. I have become real friendly with several of these families because I can speak German which I learned in High school. I have a room and bed at a very small cost. The landlady says nothing is too good for the Yanks.

We are located between two large towns Luxemberg and Dickirck. Our division is here all together. In a few weeks we will either advance into Germany or make preparations for our journey homeward. We are fairing very well and as it rains most of the time we cannot do much work. Our eats are fair so we do not worry as to our next.

My last letter from the states was dated December 11th from Brother Joe. No doubt we will get our mail regularly now as the division is together.

Your son,
Edward E. Waters.

From Lewis P. Snyder

Mrs. I. E. Liter of 303 E. Walnut street, this city, has the following letter from her brother, Lewis P. Snyder, who is with the 33d division of the army of occupation:

Stegean, Luxemburg,
Jan. 9, 1919.

Dear Sister and Brother:

Received your most welcome letter a few days ago and was glad to hear from you all. This leaves me in the best of health, and hope to find you the same.

Your letter of Dec. 2 is the first letter I have received with any paper in it, and the first one that you have spoken anything about the barbed wire. Too late now to get anything for we are a long ways from the trenches, and are not very far from Germany. Have a god place to sleep now, in houses with the people, and they are sure fine to us. We sleep on the floor which is much better than the trenches. I had a nice soft bed a few nights but could not sleep good for it was too soft. We hiked for ten days and covered about two hundred kilometers.

Do not know just how long we will be in this place and do not know just when we will leave this country for the U. S. I suppose between now and the Fourth of July. This is some country, no place to go, no shows, or anything. Do not see how the young people ever pass the evenings. I only hope we will get out of this country. The people are much cleaner than the French at that, but I think I have seen about all I want to.

Would like to get back to God's country, where I can talk and understand what they are saying. They can give you the devil here and we never know it. But guess it is all right anyway, as we are used to it by now. Will close. Love to both.

From your brother,
Lewis.

SELECTIVE DRAFT FOR CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR AND ALDERMEN

Editor Journal:

The United States won the world's war by using the selective draft. It gave the best material for soldiers that was in the country and when assembled in the army their fighting was a wonder to the armies of Europe. Now, let's use that method in selecting candidates of nine managers to run the corporation of Jacksonville to be elected. The city needs nine of her best business men who will take the present revenues amounting to $100,000 per anum and apply at least $25,000 each year to paying off the floating debt of $125,000. That sum war largely for current expenses in the last four years.

It sounds good to say we have a banker to run our city but it is very expensive. It cannot afford another such a luxury for twenty five years—can it be done? Yes, if you elect men who know. Now just use the same sense that keeps you from asking the blacksmith to repair your watch. They will need to practice economy commencing with themselves—salary of the mayor not over $500 per annum, alderman $3 for each regular meeting. Pay all employes of the city full market salary and then require them to render as efficient service as they would render to a private corporation. And such men would enforce all the laws, not merely talk about it.

You have the men in each ward, but they will not offer to be candidates. Their friends must go and tell them they are selected because the city needs them and it is their patriotic duty to render this service as it was for the soldier boys to go to France, and that you will fix up their nomination papers and will not take no for an answer.

Now is the time that everyone should do what they can. And we need not count on a higher rate of taxation. The real estate of the city is paying all it can stand. So, there must be no bond issue. That would be increasing the debt instead of paying it off.

And there is the water works to build with that money which the city voted to raise and it does not require another dollar to build as good as can be made, if the money is not wasted.

A. Platt.

Mrs. Arthur Burrus helped represent Arenzville in the city yesterday.

VERSEAS CAMPAIGN PASSES IN REVIEW

rivate Mason Randle Writes to Parents Interesting Story of Army Career in France.

The following interesting letters have been received by Rev. nd Mrs. G. B. Randle from heir on, Private Mason Randle, who s with the medical department f the 331st infantry now in overeas service:

Germonville, near Verdun,
Sept. 21, 1918.

Dear Folks:

After a lapse of about six eeks, I received three of your etters, dated Aug. 5, 6, and 16. started a letter several times n the interval, but decided to ait for a letter from you.

Many interesting events have aken place since my last letter. On Aug. 7 left our old billets in Pierregot and went up to the line. We stopped over night and till ix o'clock of the following day n a deserted village, (Baizeux); t was in the range of Jerry's guns, but he gave us only a few cattering H. E.'s with no damage. From this village, we advanced, going southward toward he front. We hiked all night nd till eight o'clock the following morning. We were then close enough to hear the guns, in fact, we were in front of our own heavy guns. The star shells and signal rockets of both sides, together with the continual thunder of cannons and "put-put" of machine guns gave the impressions of a gigantic celebration. Now, it would impress me differently, for I have gone thru the "valley."

Saw First Tanks

Toward early morning, the occasional booming in various sectors gave way to continuous roars, as a barrage was laid down for advancing troops. Here I saw my first tanks. We were resting at the side of the road, when three of them crawled along on their thundering path in the fields at the roadside, rising and falling as they encountered old trenches and shell holes. It was easy to imagine what a terrible effect they would have on troops facing them when in full action, spitting out a deadly stream of steel and crushing all that was in their path. I later saw one poor fellow who had got in the track of one of these monsters.

When we finally stopped, we were near a village, Sailly-la-Sec, on the banks of the Somme. It had once been a village and had been in the hands of the Germans two days before. You have no doubt seen pictures of towns that had been under continuous gun fire. Well, wou can get a hazy idea of what the village looked like. Only a few shattered walls and frames standing. The streets and buildings were all gutted by huge shell craters. Trees were uprooted, some with half their trunks remaining and others sheared of their leaves and branches. Many German prisoners had been taken away through this town, so that the ground was covered with their equipment, viz. helmets, rifles, gas masks, ammunition, etc. The front was only a few miles from this place, but was extremely quiet on the morning of the 9th of August. Everyone was dead tired from the all-night hike, but our curiosity sent us all over the village to see the ruins.

No Time for Burial of Dead.

It would have been far better if we had slept, for as you have read, we went over the top at 5:30 on Aug. 9 at Chipilly Ridge and pushed the Huns back over steep hills and through timber for about 6 kilos. The order to move up came at a minute's notice and in the allotted time we were moving on to ——. The road up to the front bordered the Somme at the foot of a high ridge. Along the road were piles of German ammunition, rifles, machine guns, hand grenades, and an occasional dead German, for in their flight they had no time for burial and the English who were pressing them were too busy catching up. No one knew we were going into a "hop over" except the higher officers. Finally we turned off the main road into the valley through a timber. Later, a German observer with a telephone was caught on the crest of one of the hills, reporting our coming and strength. They had occupied this very valley the day before, so they knew the exact range of our position. No sooner had we entered the valley than Fritz put on a barrage, combing the woods and the valley. It was my first experience under heavy shell fire and frankly, I experienced some sensations and thought some thoughts that were entirely new. The medical detachment followed behind the battalion, there being only three of us with one officer. It seemed that Fritz waited till every one got into the valley before he turned loose. Almost immediately there was work for us, for shrapnel and H. E. started early taking toll. We had the pleasure of seeing trees shorn of limbs, once in a while a whole tree heaved into the air, as a shell sank into its roots and exploded. Overhead, shrapnel filled the air with whizzing pellets, together with whining machine gun bullets, clipping the leaves and brush around us. It was in such peaceful surroundings, about 200 yards from where the boys mounted a steep ridge and routed the Huns from their machine gun nests in the thickets and hastily constructed trenches, in a wheat field, that we established our aid station. For almost two hours we lay in shallow holes and worked behind trees dressing the wounded and sending them back to the ambulance station, some walking, some carried on stretchers. Just before dark we advanced about three hundred yards to a dugout which Fritz had just evacuated and which had been used as a first aid station for his troops. In his hurried exit he left a number of instruments, medicines, bandages, splints, etc., which, with our own, we used to patch up our own boys who were brought in all night and the following morning. Needless to say we worked all night without a stop. I won't even attempt to describe that night, for now it seems like a nightmare for the boys that came to us, some wrecked almost beyond repair and others—, were those we had spent happy occasions with in the various camps. Brave boys they were, who smiled, said it didn't hurt much, and told us about it as they smoked a cigarette and waited their turn to be dressed and carried away. There were many peculiar incidents. Among them were two I remember. One of the fellows had a machine gun bullet pierce a note book in his breast pocket and without breaking the skin fall down inside his shirt and burn a large blister at his waist line, where it lodged. Another fellow, a stretcher-bearer noticed a tear in his coat pocket and upon looking discovered that a machine gun bullet had struck a tobacco can. Another fellow told of being completely buried in a shell hole by another exploding shell and his appearance substantiated his story.

Casualties Mosely from Gas

By the next evening we had become used to this shelling, which was slow and infrequent. There was one more "hop-over" in the ten days. The most of the casualties were from gas, which Fritz sent over incessantly in his shells. During this time we moved our aid station up several kilos. In the first night's engagement, a large number of prisoners was captured. They were all sent past our station as stretcher bearers. Many wounded Germans came to our station and were cared for like our own men, given cigarettes and a word of cheer. I talked with a few and to a man they stated that the war was "Schrecklich," hoped it would soon be over and were glad to be taken prisoners. I got a few souvenirs from some, but was not in the mood for souvenir gathering. Quite a number of intelligent-looking prisoners came thru our place. Some were of a low type, some very young, most of them with a hunted, dog-like look in their eyes, hardly expecting the treatment they received. On August 11 I walked out over some of the ground which our men had snatched from the Hun on Aug. 9 and 10. I had become hardened to gruesome sights, but I won't even attempt to describe the scene. On the 15th we were relieved and went back to the road on the Somme for a couple of days rest, to go back in reserve for four days more. While back in rest, we had everything good to eat. A. Y. M. C. A. can set up a canteen with candy, cake, cigarettes, etc., for sale. I went in swimming in the Somme two and three times a day. Back there the war wasn't half bad.

Some of the guns we captured are, according to rumor, being shipped back to the states to the First Illinois Armory. Every one had souvenirs, rings, watches, pocket books, match safes, belts, revolvers, etc.

It was with light step that we were finally relieved and turned our backs on the front.

Paid a Terrific Price

You have no doubt read of the battle and General March's praise for our part in it. We earned every bit of praise and the price we paid was terrific.

At present we are behind another sector, five miles from Verdun. Am learning a little French from an artillery sergeant. We are living in dugouts in the sides of hills. The hills are covered with timber and brush, thickly strewn with blackberry bushes which supply us with lots of fresh fruit. We have a home-made fire place which we use to fry bread and make coffee which the cooks are kind enough to give us beside our regular rations.

Since being here I have witnessed two aeroplane battles, but they were too high and too far away to prove exciting. However, two German planes furnished us a little excitement one afternoon. We were watching a Jerry observation balloon through field glasses and saw one of our aviators set is afire with an incendiary bomb. They reported our planes getting five enemy balloons, but he retaliated by bringing down two of ours; one was about 500 yards away and the other 1,000 yards from us. There were some large clouds hanging low, making an ideal camouflage for such work. We heard the peculiar, pulsating throb of a Jerry plane and before we knew it two black objects darted from a large dark cloud over our heads and sped straight for the balloon. The observer leaped with his parachute from his basket and was floating groundward when the balloon was set on fire. The other plane made a bee-line for the second balloon, which was a repetition of the first and both turned tail for home, scarcely paying any heed to the shrapnel breaking around them. As far as we could see they both got back safely over their own lines. It all happened in less time than is required to tell about it. Every night lately has been a moonlight one. Fritz does not fail to come over, loaded with bombs. The anti-aircraft guns make futile attempts to throw up a barrage around the enemy planes, but the falling shrapnel does more damage to those on the ground than do the planes. The percentage of damage done by the enemy's bombs is very small compared to the amount he drops. The moral effect is the greatest, for it is an experience never to be forgotten, to be in the vicinity of an air raid. You never know when or where he will drop the next and it takes ages for him to pass from right above you. Above all, the rising and falling throb of his motor instils a never-to-be-forgotten fear. There is a certain amount of fascination in it all (that's when you're back in rest), the great gamble with fate. Of course we are all anxious to see it end. Tomorrow won't be too soon. We are all "fed up on it." But as long as it lasts our boys will be there till the curtain falls. The fellows are congregating in here now, talking over the happenings and their experiences in the Chipilly stunt.

Oh, yes, I received the 56.40 francs all right. I will try to ship some of my souvenirs home.

Lovingly,
Mason.

Sept. 22, 1918.

Tell the kiddies that I derived lots of enjoyment from their letters. As to the Crown Prince, we hear little of his doings here. You ask for the pronunciation of "Foch." I heard a Frenchman pronounce it the other day and will try to reproduce it—"Foke" with the "o" barely perceptibly long, the word itself being spoken very quickly.

In perusing your letter I note your surprise at our having nothing to do. Up to July 4th stunt we were doing practically nothing, but since we have made up for it. The first part of this letter should give you an idea of our work. We establish a first-aid station in as protected a spot and as close to the line as possible. The line company stretcher bearers bring the wounded to us to be given rfist aid treatment and we turn them over to the ambulance company stretcher-bearers. At Chipilly our first station was 200 yards back, (where all of Jerry's shells were landing and the last one established was about 400 yards from the line.

Lately we have had "beaucoup" rain. Almost every day has its showers. When we hike at night it's a sure sign of rain. Jerry had some observation balloons up this morning and must have seen something for he sent over some live ones but caused no damage.

I am in excellent health and spirits. Saw Captain Kendall a few days ago, but didn't have any opportunity to talk to him. I don't think Ellis's outfit has been up to the line yet. He may have been injured in an air raid. I have heard nothing about him or where he is. Tell Mrs. Sawyer that I will let her know when I need some more knitted stuff. I may need a little extra money when they begin to give us leave of absence. I would like to visit all of the big cities and places of interest that I can here in France. It costs nothing to ride on the train here, but they soak you when you buy in the towns.

With love to all.

COLLEGE OF MUSIC NOTES

Owing to the services of the Week of Prayer for the Colleges the regular weekly recital in the College of Music was abandoned. On next Thursday the recitals will again be resumed.

Miss Lazelle's annual recital is announced for Thursday evening Feb. 20th., with Mr. Stearns at the piano.

On Feb. 27th there will be a recital by students in the College of Music, to whom the public is invited. Both of these recitals will begin at eight o'clock.

Mr. Stearns will begin his regular series of Vesper Organ recitals in the very near future. The recitals this year will be devoted to composition for the organ by American composer. As usual the recitals will consist of organ solos and solos by assisting artists.

This morning Miss Lazelle will sing at the Lincoln memorial service in Springfield. Governor Harding of Iowa, is to be the speaker of the occasion.

During the past week Mis Lazelle has had a letter from her pupils, Misses Veronica and Grace Davis, telling of their very successful season in Chatuaaqua and Lyceum work. The tour they have just completed took them over the entire middle west from Ohio to North Dakota. Since completing it they have signed a contract with the Cort Lyseum Burau which will take them over the Eastern States from Pennsylvania to Maine.

Miss Clara Moore will play a solo at the Jacksonville High school Monday afternoon, and one before the Odd Fellows Lodge on Monday evening. Mr. Stearns will acompany her.

Please, Mother! It's Nasty! Give Me a Candy Cascaret

TO MOTHERS! Instead of the dreaded dose of castor oil, drops, calomel or pills, give your children Cascarets and save money, worry and trouble. Children love Cascarets because they taste like candy. Nothing else acts so gently but surely on the child's little stomach, liver and bowels.

When one of the kiddies has a white tongue, tainted breath, sour stomach or a cold; when cross, bilious, feverish, constipated remember, a Cascaret to quickly "work" away the nasty bile, sour fermentations and poisons should always be the first treatment given. Cascarets never gripe the tender bowels, never injure, and never disappoint the worried mother. Each 10 cent box of Cascarets contain directions for children's dose from one year old and upwards. Also for adults.

Your Spring Clothes Should Be Weihl Made

There are many reasons why they should, but the most important are Value and Smartness.
Weihl-made clothes are stylish—due to the excellence of the tailoring and the artistic way in which they are designed. Their value is due to the high intrinsic worth of the materials put into them in comparison with our quoted prices.
You positively get the most for your money. Good looks and good value are the two big things every man is looking for and in Weihl tailoring you get them to the utmost.
Why not try a Weihl-made suit this Spring and get something better class in the truest sense of the word—better workmanship—better styles—better fabrics? You are cordially invited to come and inspect our complete display.

WORLD'S URODUCTION OF NATURAL OIL

London, Dec. 17.—The world's production of natural oil last year was estimated at more than 60,000,000 tons in a statement made by Dr. F. Perkin in an address delivered recently before the Institution of Petroleum Technologists. This would be an increase of 10,000,000 tons over the production of 1913, he said.

PLANNING FARM LABOR AGENCIES

Department of Agriculture Plans Further Efforts to Supply Help in Harvesting Crops, Great Acreage of Winter Wheat Indicates Gravity of Situation.

Washington, Feb. 7.— Even if peace treaties should be formally executed before the next harvest season, farm labor conditions in the United States will not automatically return in 1919 to prewar conditions. Therefore, the United States Department of Agriculture is planning farm labor activities for 1919.

Officials of the department suggest that the farm labor situation in 1919 may be quite as serious as that of 1918. A large part of our army may remain in Europe thruout the year.

What Wheat Acreage Means.

The area of winter wheat sown in the fall of 1918 is estimated by the Department of Agriculture at 49,027,000 acres, which is 15.9 per cent more than the revised estimated area sown in the fall of 1917.

The winter wheat acreage speaks a volume in regard to the need for farm help. Three or four men will be needed to harvest what one man has planted—and there has been no claim that there was a surplus of labor for the planting operations.

Permanent Labor Advocated.

The Department of Agriculture plans to maintain its organization that aided in supplying farm labor in 1918. It will aim to tap every source of emergency help—men, women, and girls from the cities, the Boys' Working Reserve, and other organizations of that sort.

The main effort of the department, however, is to be centered on placing men permanently as helpers on the farms. Permanent labor, employed the year around under good living conditions and at fair wages, is believed to be one of the prime needs on literally millions of American farms.

Many soldiers and men who have left the farms for war industries—and figures show that war industries took more men from the farms than were given to the army—are expected to return to the farms if they are offered permanent and profitable employment.

What is the farmer's part in making farm labor permanent? In the first place, department officials believe, every farm that has an idle period during a part of the year should so plan its operations that there will be work thru every season. Crops can be rotated, live stock fed, dairying pursued, and poultry production, will solve the problem in many sections, it is believed.

Homes For Hired Men.

Large numbers of married men should be working on the farms, it is stated. To get them, better tenant houses are needed in many cases, and permanent employment is a prime necessity. To help meet the need for good tenant houses, the department has developed plans for model structures.

Cooperation Helps Farmers.

One feature of the department's work deals with stimulating cooperation and exchange of labor among farmers. For example, it recently has listed the heads of more than 1,000 threshing rings in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Michigan. These rings include from three to twenty farms and involve not only the cooperative purchase of a threshing machine but also the cooperative arrangement of crews for harvesting and threshing.

The plan has proved so successful that the same idea is spreading to other kinds of farm work which can best be handled by crews or teams of men.

INCREASE IN NUMBER OF LAW STUDENTS

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 24.—Demobilization of the Student Army Training Corps at the University of Iowa caused a number of men to quit their scholastic activities also, but this number is more than offset by the return of former students discharged from the army.

The change has had a marked effect in the number of students in the college of law, which is thrice as great as during the first semester. University authorities expect the law school soon will reach its pre-war standard.

Registration in the engineering college's freshman class is 30 per cent larger this quarter than ever efore. Dean W. G. Raymond attributes this to the recognition of the practical value of engineering in reconstruction work.

FARMERS OPPOSE DAYLIGHT SAVING

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 24.—Opposition to continuance of the "daylight saving" plan has evidenced itself among some of the farmers of Iowa, and from one section at least a petition will be sent to congress protesting against it.

Farmers of Marcy township, Boone county, oppose it and expect to call the matter to the attention of congress. They declare it unsatisfactory, as the farmer works from daylight to dark, regardless of the hour, and the change confuses their work schedule.

An incident is cited in another county, where a relative from a city noticed two clocks on the mantel last September, one set to "daylight saving" time and the other to sun time. Asked the reason for this, the farmer replied:

"That one," pointing to the sun time clock, "is God's time. We get up in the morning, do our farming and go to bed by that time. The other is Woodrow Wilson's time. That's what we go to the train by."

HEAVY SELLING OF SHIPPING ON EXCHANGE

NEW YORSK, Feb. 8.—Proposed reduction of coast wise service and reports of additional cuts in trans-Atlantic freight rates caused moderately heavy selling of shippings in today's otherwise quiet stick market. Marine common fell a point the preferred almost two, United Fruit 3½ and Atlantic, Gulf and West nIdias 4¼, very slight recoveries ensuing later.

Steel Foundry, American Car, American Can, U. S. Rubber, the secondary motors, Mexican Petroleum and Consolidated Gas reacted o ne to three points and United States Steel lost a substantial fraction.

Canadian Pacific's loss of 1¾ points were ascribed to that company's shipping interests, other rails making no material change. Metals were comparatively steady. Sales amounted to 55,000 shares.

A decrease of $53,000,000 in actual loans and discounts and a contraction of almost $30,000,000 in excess resedves were the unusual features of the weekly bank statement.

Trading in bonds was fairly large, the general list shading fractionally, with a minimum quotation for Liberty Fourth 4s at 93.98, that issue rallying later. Total sales (par value) aggregated $6,650,000.

Old U. S. coupon and registered 4s advanced ¼ of 1 per cent on call during the week.

PRICE FIXING GOSSIP LOWERS CORN MARKET

CHICAGO, Feb. 8.—Persistent heavy speculative selling associated with gossip about price fixing for basic commodities more than wiped out advances today in the corn market. The close was nervous at the same as yesterday's finish to 3¾c net lower with May $1.12 to $1.12⅛ and July $1.08¼ to $1.08½. Oats finished ½@1c lower. In provisions there were gains of 37c to 95c

Advices that the entente allies were unwilling to accept the export conditions which the Argentine government was said to be trying to enforce caused houses with eastern connections to take an aggressively bearish attitude and finally succeeded in bringing about declines. Gossip that a further downward movement of commodity prices was inevitable had considerable to do with the setback and so too had a sudden development of heging here in the February option.

Oats were weak thruout the day. Support was lacking.

Reports that packers had received liberal new orders from the government hoisted provisions. Shipments during the week were far in excess of the totals a year ago.

ELKS' WORK IN THE WAR

By William Almon Wolff

(In Collier's Weekly)

When America declared war on Germany, in April, 1917, all sorts of organizations were seized with the desire to do their part. Your club was one of them, wasn't it? And your church—and about every organization that helped to keep you in touch with your fellow men and women. There has probably never been such a manifestation of eagerness to serve and be of use as America made in the first weeks of the war. The sum of the effort that grew out of that impulse of service was tremendous—incalculable. Much of it was finely and usefully directed; much of it was not. This is the brief and unadorned tale of one collective effort that got results.

If you happen to be an Elk, a member of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, you will know a good deal of what is to be told. If you are not, you may be as surprised as I was when I learned what the Elks had done.

To begin with, to be an Elk you must be an American. The Elks eliminated the hyphen long before the war made that symbol unpopular in these United States. The Elks are not exclusive. They don't care whether a man is Jew or Gentile, Catholic or Protestant. They're not particular about his tailor and they're not interested in his ideas about politics. But if he isn't one hundred per cent American he doesn't belong. So, when we got into the war, the Elks, with their membership of half a million, didn't have to worry about divided loyalty. They knew their members; they could count on them. Elks began enlisting immediately; before Germany gave up more than fifty thousand of them were in the service—a remarkable record, when you consider that a good many Elks, naturally, are well beyond military age.

Help Where Needed and at Once

The first step the Elks took toward organizing their war work was the appointment of the Elks War Relief Commission, on June 2, 1917. John K. Tener, who is about equally proud of having been governor of Pennsylvania and president of the National League, headed the commission, and has been giving up nearly all his time to its work ever since his appointment. His fellow workers—and their names ought to be known!—were Joseph T. Fanning, Jerome B. Fisher, James R. Nicholson, Edward Rightor, and Fred Harper.

Tener's commission began by consulting with the Red Cross and the War Department. In July it reported to the Grand Lodge that the first thing to be done was the establishment of base hospital units, to be equipped by the Elks and operated by the War Department. Immediately the Grand Lodge voted a million dollars and authorized Tener and his associates to go ahead. No strings were tied to the commission; the Elks wanted to give help where it was needed and give it at once. And it was well understood that if a million dollars didn't prove to be enough another million could be had for the asking. As a matter of fact, the first million has not all been spent yet, but if the work of reconstruction requires it any part of another million can be had at once.

The University of Virginia and the University of Oregon had both organized base hospital units. Fred Harper, who was, in 1917, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, was a Virginia man, and knew about his university's work. So the Elks and the old university got together. The Elks provided the equipment, at a cost of $60,000, for a base hospital unit of a thousand beds, and, a little later, at the suggestion of Senator Chamberlain of Oregon, who is an Elk, did the same thing for the Oregon unit. Both hospitals have done splendid work in France.

At the same time Tener and the others were looking ahead. The Elks have always worried about men whom life has more or less knocked out. Elks have given many a poor devil a helping hand, as individuals and as an organization. And a good many of the big men in the organization were preoccupied with the problem of the men who were coming back from France blind and crippled. They were among the first people who determined that, so far as it lay in their power to prevent it, no man or cripple in this war should ever need charity.

On Parker Hill, in Boston, there stands today the Elks U. S. A. Reconstruction Hospital—the first reconstruction hospital planned after America went to war. It has three hundred and fifty beds, and no more perfect institution of its type can be found anywhere in the world. The Elks have nothing to do with its operation. They simply built and equipped the hospital. They worked, themselves, and they worked with the medical department of the army, in finding out just what was needed. And they furnished every cent of the cost—nearly $300,000.

These were the big, centralized contributions of the Elks to the winning of the war. There were others, of somewhat similar character. At Camp Sherman, near Chillicothe, Ohio, for example, a bad situation developed because the little town couldn't take care of the relatives and friends who came to visit men and officers in the camp. The local lodge of the Elks did its best, and finally asked the Grand Lodge—the central governing body of the order—for help. The answer was the erection of a building where comfortable rooms and good food were at the disposal of visitors at cost price.

But this sort of activity didn't satisfy the Elks—the half million or more individual Elks scattered all over the country in their local lodges. They knew the part their order was playing. They were proud of that. But the two base hospitals, the big reconstructoin hospital in Boston, all the other things the Grand Lodge had done and was doing, didn't give the individual Elk much chance to feel that he himself was helping. After all, what did paying an assessment of a dollar or so amount to? It amounted to a lot in the aggregate, of course, and the Elks knew that, and were glad. But—they wanted to do more.

They did! No one knows just how the association between the Elks and the Salvation Army began. But it grew into one of the big things of the war.

The Salvation Army went to work, quietly and without any talk, as soon as we began mobilizing our new armies. The Salvation Army isn't rich. It hasn't any machinery for collecting money. And still it succeeded in carrying on its work for a year without making an appeal to the country for money. Haven't you wondered sometimes how the Salvation Army, alone of all the big war-relief bodies that were working with the troops in France, didn't come dunning you?

Well, the Elks are responsible, in a great measure. Elks seemed to hear more about the Salvation Army and its work from the first than the general public did. One reason was, I imagine, that the war crowded the Elks out of house and home so thoroughly. They gave up their clubhouses and their lodge rooms to the Red Cross all over the country, you know.

Sometimes they kept one room in a big building for their meetings; sometimes they just borrowed a room when they had to have it.

The Elks are a convivial lot. They knock around a good deal. And they are the sort who have on tap, always, a good deal of sympathy for the under dog.

They couldn't help seeing a good deal of what was being done for war relief. And they seem to have seen the Salvation Army as a sort of Cinderella. So, here and there, quite spontaneously, local lodges of the Elks began getting in touch with local Salvation Army leaders.

"See here," the Elks would say, in effect: "You people are doing mighty good work. You need money. We want to help. We can't go over there and bake doughnuts for the boys in the trenches, but, by thunder, we can help you to get the money you need! How about it?"

Tie Well Established

Then the time came, in the spring of 1918, when the Salvation Army needed five million dollars and simply had to make a drive to get it. By that time the tie between the Elks and the Salvationists was pretty well established.

Reports had been coming in to Salvation Army headquarters about the help the Elks were giving. And the leaders of the drive were nervous. They didn't know much about raising money on a wholesale basis. They'd always managed to paddle their own canoe. They didn't have a great publicity department. They didn't have any of the machinery the Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. had.

So they went to the Grand Lodge of the Elks. And the Elks, who had been hearing from their local lodges, wreeted them with enthusiasm. In more than fifty cities the Elks took complete charge of that drive—notably in Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Kansas City, and St. Louis.

They paraded the streets; they got up circuses. They left the Salvation Army people, who really had enough to do with their regular work, free, and guaranteed the money.

"They saw us through," says Colonel W. A. McIntyre, who is at the head of the army's New York office. "We're still a little dazed by all they did for us. We never could have got the money we did without them. We couldn't ask them for anything they didn't give us. Usually we didn't have a chance to ask. They took hold of our drive magnificently. There aren't words strong enough in praise of the Elks.

Incident of Past Recalled

"They're a wonderful lot. It's not quite a new thing for them to help us. I remember, once, years ago, they hald their Grand Lodge in Buffalo. And at the same time we were having a festival, and trying to raise some money. We had a hurdy-gurdy, among other things. Well, a lot of those Elks just took that hurdy-gurdy away from us. They kept it going for three days—and nights! They charged a dollar a ride, and every Elk must have ridden a dozen times. They went all over the town in it. We'd never seen as much money as they handed over to us!"

It isn't a new thing for the Elks to turn in and help in an emergency, either. Back in 1906, when the news of the disaster in San Francisco was flashed over the wires, "Bob" Brown of Louisville was Grand Exalted Ruler of the order. He caught the first train for Chicago, wiring Fred Robinson, then as now grand secretary, to have five thousand dollars in cash and tickets on the Overland Limited ready for him. Robinson gave him ten thousand and Brown beat all records in reaching the coast.

More money, in cash, kept coming to him. He stayed out there for weeks, and for a time the Elks were the only people who had any cash at all for relief work—the banks being closed.

Brown tells one story of that time. He and a lot of other relief workers, representing various organizations, went into a little town on the peninsula that had been left an utter wreck. Brown spoke last at a meeting that was organized.

A Generous Gift

"The others passed around slips on which people could write down what they needed," Brown says. "It was fine—and it was all they could do. But when it was my turn I opened a satchel I had and slapped down five thousand dollars in bills.

"'There's what the Elks can do, Mr. Mayor!' I said. 'We happen to have the cash. Go to it!'"

The Elks contributed and sent in four hundred carloads of food to San Francisco. And they raised so much money that Brown couldn't spend it all, and out of the surplus a fund was established that the Elks have used ever since to give quick relief in case of disaster.

They helped in the same way at the time of the Dayton floods in 1913, and after the forest fires in Minnesota last autumn.

And at Christmas no soldier's children lacked Christmas cheer. House-to-house investigations by the local Elks took care of that. Christmas has been a great Elk time always. Every lodge has sent members around, hunting up kids Santa Claus was pretty sure to overlook. And on Christmas morning there'd be a basket with dolls and sleds and oranges and candy. After Christmas there would be, as a rule, too, more permanent help—something to insure the future. But the Elks think kids ought to have a good time Christmas and hang the expense!

Don't you rather like these Elks?
